SHELL SCREECHES CLOSE OVER YACHT OF THE PRESIDENT

Mr. Wilson Sat on After Deck With His Physician When Big Circlet of Steel From Shell Fell Near Vessel

THOROUGH INVESTIGATION OF AFFAIR IS PROBABLE

Although Mr. Wilson Hasn't Complained, River Captains Have Declared Firing Endangers Lives of Their Crews

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—While both the officers of the president's yacht, Mayflower, and officials of the navy department were reticent today concerning the "near accident" to the vessel last week when a shell from the proving grounds at Indian Head, Md., was said to have narrowly missed the ship with President Wilson aboard, it is believed an investigation of the affair will be ordered.

It was declared today that the shell itself passed over the Mayflower at a safe height but that the danger was caused by the dislodgment from the shell of the rotating band, a circlet of steel twelve inches wide which fell close to the vessel. So loud was the screech of the shot that the Mayflower's crew, it was said, rushed on deck to ascertain the trouble.

At the time President Wilson was said to have been sitting on the after deck with Dr. Grayson, his physician. So far as is known the president made no comment or complaint on his return to the White House.

Numerous protests have been made in the past against the firing of the big guns at Indian Head. River captains declare the lives of their passengers and crews are endangered by the trials, and contend there have been many narrow escapes from disaster.

THE WHOLE WORLD'S A-WHEEL THESE DAYS

ATLANTA'S fresh-air seekers and lovers of the open country roads who can't afford four-wheeled automobiles (and some who can afford 'em, but prefer the two-wheeled affairs), are joining the rest of mankind these days and are whirling their leisure hours away on motorcycles. Tandems are popular, for on them the young man can take his best girl with him when he fares away to the rural hills and valleys. Couples like the pair shown above are to be seen these times on almost any of the fine roads around Atlanta and Fulton and adjoining counties.

SUGGESTS EXTENSION OF W. & A. TO SEA BY A.. B. & A. PURCHASE

W. N. Smith, Former Railroad Man, Points Out Possibilities of Quick Completion of Proposed Extension

TIME NOW FOR DEFINITE ACTION, HE DECLARES

As Protection to State in Rate Making, W. & A. Is Practically Useless Unless Extended, He Says

In a letter to the editor of The Journal, W. N. Smith, formerly well known railroad man of Atlanta, offers the suggestion that the state purchase the property of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, and in this manner link its own road, the Western and Atlantic, with a direct route to the sea.

This entirely new idea of Mr. Smith, coming as it does at a time when the question as to the proposed lease of the state's road is being freshly agitated, will no doubt attract the attention of the general assembly, now in session, and open for them another avenue of deliberation hitherto unapproached.

Mr. Smith's letter, which is self-explanatory, follows:

Editor The Journal:

There is hardly any question as to the sentiment of the people in Georgia in regard to the extension of the Western and Atlantic railroad to the sea. It is well defined and persistent in every section of the state, and the people are discussing it more and more as the time draws near when the present lease will expire.

It is useless for me to say that The Journal should have the full credit for keeping the people of Georgia accurately informed about this most important question and has at all times been willing to publish anything of merit on either side of the discussion.

Under modern organizations of transportation lines if Georgia expects to derive the benefit at first intended, it is time some definite steps were taken toward this extension; for it must be extended if it is ever to be of any practical benefit in the future adjustment of rates. As a mere revenue getter our present state-owned road is doing good service, but it is now in the hands of, and the tool of, a very large privately owned, and over-capitalized corporation which is using it for its own selfish interest. As a protection to the state in the mater of rate making its days are practically over unless it is extended.

Several years ago a few enterprising citizens of this state conveived the idea of extending a little south Georgia road to Atlanta and Birmingham. This was done, but apparently with disastrous results so far as its bondholders are concerned. It has shown to the satisfaction of all concerned that as an independent proposition it cannot live, and is now for sale, and will be sold in order to satisfy its various ceritors.

From the past history of such transactions, this means that this valuable piece of property will be gobbled up, and its securities hawed around in such a way that finally the men who had faith in it, and put their money in it will play the same old losing game.

Why can't the state of Georgia buy this property? It is ideal for the extension of the Western and Atlantic. Its terminals at Brunswick are not surpassed by any on the south Atlantic coast, while in other cities and towns along the line they are substantial and favorable. The road traverses a most prosperous section of the state, and a section that has been noted for its loyalty to our state institutions and who I firmly believe would take pleasure in routing their shipments over their own road at all competitive points. If our people are really in earnest about this much-talked-about extension now is the time to make a definite step, and to protect to a large extent some good people who had faith in our development.

CAUSED PROBE TO SHOW WALL ST., LAMAR ADMITS

He Tells Investigators That He Wanted to Flush Still Crowd

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—An end to the Wall street features of the lobby investigation was in sight when the senate committee resumed its hearing today. David Lamar had asked permission to make a final statement, explaining Edward Lauterbach's charges yesterday that Lamar had assured him Senator Stone and Speaker Clark were zealous for a "peaceful understanding with Morgan and the steel corporation interests."

"I realize perfectly that my life and character are on trial," he began, arguing that his attorney and Lauterbach's had shown they were not engaged in any effort to get money from J. P. Morgan & Co., or other interests.

TELLS HIS MOTIVES.

"I'll tell you what my motive was," he continued. "It was either to force these men to recognize the injustice of their attitude toward Lauterbach and myself or force them to come out into the open with the charges of 'blackmail' they had circulated in New York for years against both of us. Ledyard and his associates had ruined many men. I was determined they should not ruin me."

Lamar said he knew Lewis Cass Ledyard was trying to "trip him" when he began telephoning in the name of Representative Palmer, and then he determined to fix up a "game" on Ledyard "to force the financial people into the open."

He testified he had told Lauterbach that Senator Stone had authorized him to make certain representations to the Morgan firm, and had told Lauterbach that Senator Stone said he represented Speaker Clark. Lauterbach had testified yesterday that all his information about Senator Stone and Speaker Clark came from Lamar.

SAYS HE IS ONLY VILLAIN.

Lamar insisted his only object was to bring about "just such a situation as is in investigation.

"I am the one villain in Wall street," said Lamar bitterly. "All the rest are actuated by the highest motives and possess the highest ideals."

He declared the whole thing was a major Wall street operation traveling on parallel lines," and insisted he was "after Ledyard, Cravath, Evarts, Lovett and the Morgan steel trust, Union Pacific and other interests," and wanted to force them to an open attack.

"It was a favorite method of mine by producing an explosion when I wanted one," he added.

There is no federal law under which David Lamar could be prosecuted for impersonating congressmen over the telephone, according to the view of officials of the department of justice, after an examination of the statutes.

It developed today that Attorney General McReynolds directed an informal examination of the case to determine whether any existing law covered the situation disclosed in the testimony of Lamar before the lobby committee, in which he admitted the impersonation of public men. It was the belief of the government lawyers that the statute forbidding the impersonations of government officers did not reach the case, because that law embraced only cases where intent to defraud could be shown.

GIRL TO TELL HER STORY OF VICE TO RECORDER

Hattie Smith, Now Penitent, Will Make Confessions in Open Court

Resolved to quit the life into which she so recently drifted, Hattie Smith, the Atlanta young woman whose revelations of vice "from the inside" gave the police some startling information Monday, will appear in police court on Tuesday afternoon and repeat in detail the story which she has recounted to the police. From the strength of that story Lena Barnhart, a white woman, and Elijah Murray, a negro bellboy, were arrested in the Cumberland hotel Monday and will be arraigned with Hattie Smith in court. The bellboy is involved by the Smith girl's story as an agent, a pernicious go-between.

"Stay away from these cheap hotels in Atlanta," is the advice that the Smith girl is now anxious to give to other young women. She asserts that she is going to follow it herself, and that when she has atoned for whatever violation she has done to the law, she will go back to her father's home on Marietta street and stay there and behave. Her father called at police headquarters Monday afternoon and told her that she would be welcomed at home. Before the young woman was arrested, the father had requested the police to find her. He reported that she had been missing since last Wednesday.

According to the Smith girl, the Barnhart woman was registered at the Cumberland hotel as Lena Revarson. They became acquainted in a soft drink stand. The Barnhart woman invited her to the hotel, according to Hattie Smith, preceding her there and registering her as Lucile Evans and securing a room for her, for which she applied and to which she was assigned later.

It is said that other arrests may follow in this matter, and that probably several men may be arrested upon the strength of the Smith girl's story. Other women may be involved yet, it is said.

MUST SHOW REGISTER.

C. V. Kistner, one of the owners of the Cumberland hotel, was summoned by the police Tuesday to appear in recorder's court Tuesday afternoon and bring with him the register of the hotel. By means of the register as evidence, the police expected to corroborate the assertions of the Smith girl.

During the morning session of court, D. V. Keith, manager of the Cumberland, appeared as defendant in a case made originally Monday evening at the request of two young men. They did not appear in court. To the arresting officers they had related that after renting a room in the hotel, and finding that they did not like it, they asked for the refund of their money and failed to get it from Mr. Keith. Mr. Keith's undisputed story in police court (no witness appearing against him) was that the young men raised a quarrel after he had refused an unreasonable demand.

Because of the revelations by the Smith girl, the police will keep an even bill as it passed the house.

BACHELOR DOMAIN LEASE CAUSES ROW IN COURT

J. P. Sims Files Suit for $3,000 Against Jasper N. Smith, Owner

Jasper N. Smith, of "The House That Jack Built" fame, and the Bachelors' Domain, 105 1-2 North Forsyth street, which he also built, got into court Tuesday morning when J. P. Sims, through Attorneys Shepard Bryan and Grover C. Middlebrooks, filed suit against Mr. Smith for $3,000.

Sims alleged that in 1911 Mr. Smith leased the Bachelors' Domain for $125 per month to Mr. Forelich, the lease to run ten years.

A short time later, Mr. Sims says, he bought the lease for $1,000, and in turn he sold it to George Caitlin for $3,000, only $2[illegible] of which was paid him in cash.

Then he alleges that Mr. Smith, without legal right or authority declared the lease cancelled and re-leased the Bachelor Domain to Caitlin, who now refuses to pay the plaintiff, Sims, the $2,975 worth of notes, which he is alleged to have given for the lease.

By wrongfully declaring the lease cancelled the plaintiff alleges that the wealthy bachelor has damaged him in the sum of $3,000.

$106,625,000 Yearly As Corporation and Income Tax Revenue

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Total yearly revenues of the corporation tax and the income tax section of the new tariff bill as revised by the senate were estimated today at $106,625,000 by the commissioner of internal revenue in statistics prepared for Chairman Simmons, of the finance committee.

The corporation tax is expected to yield $37,000,000 and the income tax $69,625,000. As the income tax cannot operate for the first two months of this year, the total revenue for 1913 will be decreased to $95,000,000. These estimates are higher than those for the bill as it passed the house.

MRS. E. B. SMITH DEFENDS FREE KINDERGARTEN BILL

Passage of Bill Would Mean Blessing to Future Citizenship, She Says

Editor The Journal:

Appearing in an afternoon paper on July 4, was a letter from a lady of College Park, pouring out her anxiety regarding the free kindergarten bill (now pending in the senate), and expressing her fears that its passage would "rob Georgia's motherhood" of their "God-given occupation."

The lady most assuredly has never read the bill, which was introduced in the senate on July 7 by Senator W. D. McNeil of the Twenty-second district.

The bill provides for the kindergarten as a part of the public school system of Georgia, for children between the ages of four and six.

The bill does not call for an appropriation and does not make it obligatory upon any county or community to adopt this provision.

The bill merely provides that the different boards of education in the state shall be authorized in their discretion to adopt the provisions of the bill and introduce the kindergarten system, using a part of the school fund which they already have on hand, for the maintenance of this system.

Woman by nature is a mother. If she has not children of her own, she mothers some one else's child, becomes a collective mother among the young or otherwise fuses the richness of her blood, the fire of her creative joy, the sap of her thought and the beauty of her feelings in some work of uplift!

That woman is an unnatural mother, who would refuse to allow her child between the age of four and six to attend the kindergarten, and would on the other hand "farm her child out" with a black nurse or turn it loose to pasturage in the wide open streets!

The sacredness of a father's love, his hopes and his ambitions for his child is seldom pictured as he passes in and out of the busy commercial arena—working for the bread to sustain the mother and his babe. He is seldom spoken of or eulogized at such times as these.

The father is interested also in the welfare of his child, and that man is an unnatural father who does not give attention to the needs of his child at the time the very foundation of its life is forming.

The mother, who of necessity must do the family cleaning and ironing, the cooking, the scrubbing, and the sewing, has little time left for watching the child between the ages of four and 6, to keep it from wandering into the streets, or playing in the back yard with other children and thus developing the street tendencies, so common among the "waifs of the street."

The mother who of necessity must go out into commercial pursuits to gain the bread for herself and her babe, whether she has been thrown there by misfortune, ill health or death of the husband, or if she has been unlawfully thrown there by a worthless husband, must have a place for her child between the ages of four and six years. We can not wait in this instance to reform the husband, bring him back to health, or marry the widow into other circumstances; for all the while this child (which is a future citizen) is gathering seeds of vice from the street or back yard influences.

The woman, who does not of necessity enter the commercial world, is as unnatural a mother as the mother who is a bridge fiend, and would find a place to "farm" her child, and would not question the influence. But, while we are trying to reform the mother, the child is blighting!

Whether the kindergarten existed or not, the unnatural mother will "farm her child out" with a negro nurse, or in some back yard, that she may spend her time at bridge or other pursuits of happiness. The taking of this child from a negro nurse in the street or back yard, and giving it the opportunity of training under an experienced kindergarten teacher, would be as great a blessing to that child as to the child whose mother must of necessity do the housework of the family or make the living. The kindergarten would not only be a blessing to the child and the community, but a blessing to our future citizenship.

Gets Divorce Because Husband's Jealous of Her "Movies" Heroes

He Couldn't Stand Her Admiration for "Screen" Men, She Told Court—Mrs. Effie Glenn Gets Decree

The sensation of the July term divorce court came Tuesday in the form of the interrogatory of Mrs. Eva H. Perkins, who is suing Lonzo Perkins. Mrs. Perkins, who comes of a prominent Rome family, but is temporarily residing at Bluefields, W. Va., declared that her husband was insanely jealous of her.

In fact, in this instance the "green-eyed monster" seems to have reached the limit, for Mrs. Perkins declared that her husband would not let her go to moving picture shows because he was jealous of the actors, whose handsome features and heroic actions were depicted upon the screen.

His jealousy, it is said, did not abate when he learned that the actors themselves were thousands of miles from the screen which his wife delighted in watching.

Mrs. Perkins, who was represented by Attorney Max Mayerhardt, of Rome, charged further that her husband in his insane rages would charge that her conduct with other men was improper, and would write his charges to members of the family in Rome despite the fact, she says, that he know them to be untrue. The husband is a railroad telegrapher liying in Atlanta. The wife got her first verdict.

MRS. GLENN GETS VERDICT.

Interesting among the forty or more cases heard Tuesday was the suit of Mrs. Effie L. Glenn against Luther J. Glenn. Mrs. Glenn in her petition had named Mrs. Ione Pidcock, wife of a south Georgia millionaire and railroad president, as corespondent. Therefore, she did not go on the stand herself, and her attorney, S. D. Hewlett, used only two witnesses. The first proved the fact of the marriage, and the second witness was Policeman E. R. Haslett, who brought Glenn back to Atlanta from Texas.

Haslett testified that Glenn told him that he and Mrs. Pidcock had traveled in Panama and other places together.

There was no defense to the suit and Judge George L. Bell directed a verdict.

Mrs. Hattie Shields got a verdict against Ira Shields on the ground of desertion. Although she lived with him four years she said that Shields contributed only $1 to her support in that time, and that she had to work all of the time.

R. E. Manston, an engraver, got a verdict when he told the jury that his wife had kicked him out of bed and otherwise abused him.

The divorce jury for this term probably will be discharged by Wednesday afternoon.

NEWT LEE'S ATTORNEYS SEEKING HIS FREEDOM

Habeas Corpus Proceedings May Bring Frank and Conley Face to Face

Petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Newt Lee, the negro night-watchman at the National Pencil factory who has been held in jail since the Mary Phagan murder as a suspect, had been drawn up at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by the negro's attorneys, Graham and Chappell, and the firm then was seeking the signature of the nearest available judge of the Fulton superior court for a writ fixing the time and place for a hearing upon the matter and directing Newt Lee be brought into court.

It is by this method that the negro is said to seek his freedom from jail, contending that there is no reason for confining him for any part in the matter. The solicitor is expected to vigorously fight the habeas corpus and insist that Lee be held as a material witness.

Should the petition be signed both the state and the attorneys for Leo M. Frank will be notified and this brings up the possibility of Frank and the negro sweeper, Conley, being brought face to face in court.

At 2 o'clock it was said that the habeas corpus hearing would probably be set for Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The following is Newt Lee's petition:

"To the superior court of Fulton county:

"The petition of Newt Lee shows the following facts:

"1. That petitioner is a resident of said state and county.

"2. That on the 26th day of May, 1913, petitioner was arrested as a suspect in the Mary Phagan murder, and following the investigation of said murder case by the coroner's jury of said county your petitioner was ordered held as a suspect.

"3. Petitioner shows that two grand juries of Fulton county have failed to indict petitioner in said murder case.

"4. Petitioner respectfully shows that he found the body of Mary Phagan and immediately reported to the proper authorities the finding of the body, as any good citizen would have done, and that his motive in so doing was prompted through his proper raising by good white people, to-wit: the well known Arnold family of Coweta county, Ga., and in accord with petitioner's conception of right and wrong. Petitioner says that by so reporting to the authorities, he believes that he has done his whole duty to the good people of the great state of Georgia and believes that his continued unlawful imprisonment is an injustice to himself, and is not in furtherance of justice or a correct solution of the murder of Mary Phagan; that he has no direct knowledge of the crime and that his testimony is not sufficiently important to a successful prosecution of said murder case to warrant the continued imprisonment of your petitioner as a witness in said case.

"5. Petitioner shows that he was incarcerated in the city prison of Atlanta; that he was put through the 'third degree' by the city detectives and was browbeaten, abused and sought to be entrapped or confused.

"6. Petitioner shows that after he had been put through the 'third degree' by the detectives he was removed to the county jail, where he is now being held unlawfully and illegally by C. W. Mangum, as sheriff of said county.

"7. Petitioner further shows that he is restrained of his liberty without warrant or authority, and contrary to the laws of the state of Georgia and the constitution of said state and of the United States of America. Petitioner shows that his continued incarceration is undermining and ruining his health; that he has no money or source of revenue by which he can purchase proper food or other necessities so that he may conserve his health and constitution.

"Wherefore petitioner prays the court

ARMY OFFICERS PRAISE TEXAS DIVISION CAMP

General Carter Says Sanitary Methods of Big Camp Are Perfect

(By Associated Press.)

TEXAS CITY, Tex., July 8.—What army officers say is the best organized, best trained and healthiest military camp in the world today stretches for two miles along the Gulf of Mexico shore here. Four months ago the site of this camp was virtually a swamp. This transformation is one of several big achievements of the American soldiers sent here last February for the mobilization of the Second division of the United States army, the first of the new divisions brought together in this country.

Major General William H. Carter, commanding the Second division, United States army, said today:

"The division here and at Galveston comprises one-third of the infantry strength of the United States army and, with artillery, cavalry and signal corps, makes nearly 12,000 men. Bringing the division together has taught the officers and men the intimate needs of a big organization. When the command comprising the various divisions go back to their various posts and are ordered to reassemble for any service whatever, the commanding officer can issue a single order which will cover the entire equipment of every man, whether for northern or southern or over-seas service.

SANITARY METHODS PERFECT.

"The Second division is now in excellent shape. The soldiers are sturdy types of American manhood, equal to any in the world. The whole division, with baggage, could be ready to go aboard trains or transports before the cars could be sidetracked or the transports ready to cast off.

"Probably the one most important accomplishment for the American people has been the demonstration of sanitary standards. It has verified the methods tested at San Antonio in 1911, when 14,000 men assembled as a maneuver division. We have now been here four months, and not one case of typhoid has developed. When we came we were told that this site was a swamp.

"We could train twice as many men here without increase of officers. We believe the United States does not need a large army such as maintained by European countries, but a few regularly organized and equipped divisions, such as this, distributed over the country at points where they could be readily available for over sea service and as models for our volunteer citizen soldiery, upon which this country must rely, would more than repay their cost."

Brigadier General C. H. Edwards, commanding the Sixth brigade, has worked out the night attack formation by which, with the use of ropes to help keep the commands in touch, over 2,000 men one pitch-dark night marched out of camp without awakening any one, went two miles, led by only two guides, and approached within thirty yards of an entrenchment before the officers in it, who were waiting for the attack, knew of the enemy's approach. The center of this attacking line struck within ten yards of the center of the entrenchment.

Minister Favors "Cooling Periods" To Cure Divorces

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8.—"Cooling periods" of three months' duration, dating from the finish of the trial, to give remorse a chance to work and bring about reconciliation, was advocated yesterday by the Rev. J. Leonard Levy, of Pittsburg, as the cure for the divorce evil, in a paper read before the Conference of American Rabbis.

Dr. Levy also said that rabbis should demand two weeks' notice from couples who wanted to be married in order to investigate their records, and that a health certificate should be presented by such couples to the clerks of marriage license bureaus. The conference adopted a universal hymn book.

The horse ran through the business section of the city and was finally caught in Beauty park, after smashing a dray at the Union station.

FEDERAL BUREAU PRAISES VOCATIONAL INSTRUCTION

New York's Efforts Commended—Recommend System for All Public Schools

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Commendation of the work of the vocational guidance survey of New York City is contained in a statement issued today by the United States bureau of education. The bureau is in sympathy with vocational training and has advocated its adoption in the public schools of the country. The bureau quotes from a report just issued by the New York organization and applauds its thoroughness and the methods employed.

"On one point the New York report is unusually explicit," the bureau officials commend. "There are no jobs for children under sixteen which they ought to take," it declares. Furthermore it emphasizes the need for more information about industrial conditions before attempting to steer boys and girls into positions.'

Commissioner of Education Claxton has preached the need of specialization in educating the youth to officials of his bureau, but the New York civic organization is the first of other civic and state educational organizations that will take up the question and advocate it.

PITTSBURG QUIET AFTER TWO BIG BANKS SUSPEND

Run on Savings Bank, Caused by Failures, Being Met Effectively

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 8.—When the banking day opened here there was little to indicate that there had been a period of financial anxiety over the failure of two banks yesterday and the appointing of receivers for a large banking house and an extensive industrial enterprise.

No unusual scenes were observed about other banks of the city with the exception of the Citizens' Bank for Savings, another bank controlled by J. S. and W. S. Kuhn, who controlled the majority of stock in the two banks which were closed yesterday.

The run on the savings institution started by yesterday's failures was resumed this morning, but all depositors who paid $50 at once and notices of thirty, sixty and ninety days for larger amounts were required.

With the assurance of several millions in cash and quick assets on hand, the run on this bank doubtless will not prove serious. In fact, bankers of Kuhn connections assert that the savings bank will weather the situation and make all payments as demanded, with the result that at the expiration of the time for notice of withdrawals public confidence will be restored.

About the First-Second National bank this morning groups of foreigners were gathered, copying from the doors of the foreign banking department the notice of the closing by the government posted in sixteen different languages.

A meeting of the Clearing House association is called for later in the day. No intimation has been given of the purpose of the meeting, but some statement is expected regarding the closing of the First-Second National bank.

J. S. and W. S. Kuhn this morning resigned as president and vice president respectively of the Pittsburg Bank for Savings, at which a run is being directed. The following officers were elected to take charge of the bank.

W. J. Jones, president; L. M. Plumer, vice president; A. N. Voegtley, secretary and treasurer.

McKeesport Bank Closed By Comptroller's Order

McKEESPORT, Pa., July 8.—he First National bank of McKeesport, controlled by J. S. and W. S. Kuhn, which was closed by the directors yesterday, today was formally closed by order of the comptroller of the currency at Washington.

McAdoo May Send Banks to Department of Justice

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Secretary McAdoo today still was considering the question of calling upon the department of justice to investigate the failure of the First-Second National bank of Pittsburg.

Officials now are giving particular attention to the discrepency between the sworn report of the bank to the comptroller of the currency on June 4 and the financial statement it published in the Pittsburg newspapers. The report to the comptroller showed nearly $2,000,000 in rediscounts by the bank of money, but that item was omitted from the published statement. The national bank act requires the publication of the statement in the form submitted to the comptroller.

Treasury officials today reiterated their confidence that the general banking condition in Pittsburg and the entire country was sound and strong, and that the failure of the First-Second National bank was simply the collapse of a weak spot due, as they phrased it, to "unsound banking."

ATLANTA AFTER 1916 CONVENTION OF ELKS

Denver Wins 1914 Meet—Regulars Claim Victory Over Insurgent

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 8.—Atlanta's campaign for the grand lodge meeting of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in 1916 was launched here today at the grand lodge, now in session.

Denver, Col., was chosen as the meeting place for 1914 today. This selection followed a spirited canvass into which the invitation of Atlanta was injected without previous hearing and by means of which, through postponing their fight when it was apparent that Denver had won the meeting for next year Atlanta representatives got their 1916 invitation prominently before the convention.

The campaign in behalf of Atlanta will be continued actively at the Denver meeting in 1914 and at the 1915 meeting, which probably will be held in San Francisco during the Panama exposition there.

With contests for nearly every office, the first business session opened this morning.

Supporters of Edward Leach, of New York, candidate of the regulars for grand exalted ruler, claimed a victory this morning with at least 1,000 votes margin. They did not concede more than 600 to J. Cookman Boyd, of Baltimore, the insurgent candidate. It was the intention of both factions to conclude the election today if possible. A hot fight for grand trustee is being waged between Samuel V. Perrett, of Indianapolis, and J. D. Jones, of Scranton, Pa.

The day's program outside of the business session included band concerts, a ball game and a roast fest. Tonight an electrical and floral parade will be a feature.

"Ice Trust" in Queer Role; Starts Fight For Cheaper Prices

NEW YORK, July 8.—War between wholesale ice dealers has created a situation without precedent in New York, that of the so-called ice trust fighting for lower prices.

The company—the Knickerbocker—is selling wholesale at $4 a ton; competitors are charging $5 and $6. As a result the Knickerbocker is swamped by demands and faces a shortage. It says it will not raise the price and the president has issued a statement appealing to the other companies to reduce their prices to attract the business the Knickerbocker cannot handle. The other dealers refused to come down.

FIFTY-MILE BARRIER TO STOP WEEVIL PROPOSED

Senator Plans to Fix Strip in Alabama Where No Cotton Is Grown

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Plans for the federal government to raise a barrier against the boll weevil of the southeastern cotton states invading the Atlantic coast states are being drafted by Senator Smith, of South Carolina. Secretary Houston, of the department of agriculture, is said to have given the proposition his tentative approval.

Senator Smith's plan is for the federal government, with state co-operation, to prohibit the growing of cotton in a belt which would separate the Atlantic coast states from the southwestern states. As the boll weevil migrates only from cotton field to cotton field, the senator believes this belt would save the states to the east of it from the pest, which has cost cotton raisers to the southwest millions of dollars annually.

According to investigation already made, the narrowest belt where a barrier might be raised would be in Alabama between the mountains near the Tennessee line and the gulf. This would be a distance of about 150 miles. The boll weevily already has swept over Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, and is said to be traveling eastward into Alabama. Senator Smith is preparing to urge upon the senate that this narrow belt will be a practical barrier if immediate action is taken to establish it. If effective, it would protect most of Alabama and all of Georgia, Florida, South Carolina and North Carolina from the weevil.

The barrier to be effective must be fifty miles wide, it is believed. The growing of cotton in that zone would be prohibited, but the farmers could raise any other crops.

Senator Smith's plan is to have the federal government compensate the farmers in this zone for not planting cotton. He is investigating the action of the federal government in stamping out yellow fever in Louisiana and in establishing forest reserves for the conservation of resources in order to have precedents for a plan.

Senator Smith today consulted Senator Kern, of Indiana, the Democratic leader, and won his approval to a federal bin plan to accomplish the desired object.

Quick Action May Mean $1,000 in Gold to You

Our little talk this evening is a friendly one to the few Journal readers who are entitled to a part of The Journal's $7,000 in the Booklovers' Campaign. Some of them have not entered because they did not have the time to select answers, while others have held out under the mistaken impression that it was necessary to have a knowledge of books in order to win. That is a wrong impression, as each Picture is drawn to represent the title of a book and not any part of the story.

If the picture was drawn to bring out any part of the story, it would require a knowledge of the story in order to select the correct title. That would be hard on those who do not know books and would be a game in which the educated man or woman would have a decided advantage over those who did not have a good education. As the pictures represent the titles and all these titles are in The Journal's catalogue, and you have the right to ten answers on each one, you will find it an easy and interesting game. In fact, you will find it so easy and interesting that you will hate to part with your Answer Book on the day you turn it in.

Another feature of the campaign that Journal readers were mistaken about was that they are not required to do any soliciting or begging of any kind in order to win a prize.

GET IN NOW AND HAVE THE SATISFACTION OF SEEING YOUR NAME IN THE WINNING LIST.

LASHES MAN UNTIL SHE BREAKS BIG WHIP ON HIM

Mrs. Cora Lanier Lee Uses Rawhide on T. D. Thompson While on Street Corner

Armed with a whip which she had purchased a short while before for that particular purpose, Mrs. Cora Lanier Lee attacked T. D. Thompson, a printer, in front of an envelope factory in which he is employed, at the corner of Forsyth and Nelson streets, just before dark Monday afternoon. She lashed him several times, breaking the whip. Then she attacked him with her fists, and he seized her arms and held them until bystanders interfered. Mrs. Lee declared that Thompson had slandered her and that she had no other way of protecting her good name. Thompson asserted that he could not surmise a good reason for the attack, save that J. J. Lee, a fireman of the Central of Georgia railroad, had requested him to make an affidavit regarding Mrs. Lee to use in divorce proceedings between them; which, said he, he had declined to do. He believes that Mrs. Lee might have heard of his visit to the lawyer's office and might have assumed that he testified against her.

Mrs. Lee was arrested and walked to headquarters between two officers. Later she was released on her promise to appear in court. Thompson was allowed to go to his home at 160 Washington street. Later in the evening policemen served him there with a copy of charges, summoning him to appear in police court Tuesday afternoon. Charges of disorderly conduct were docketed against both of them.

Mrs. Lee declared after her arrest that she could not afford the notoriety or expense of court proceedings against Thompson for his alleged slanderous utterances against her, and that, therefore, she had adopted the whipping method. She said that earlier in the day she had related the whole affair to Chief of Police Beavers and that he had remarked that Thompson apparently needed his face slapped. The chief decided that, however, saying that he advised his caller to take out a peace warrant against Thompson or sue him for slander.

After her attack had been stopped Mrs. Lee was taken into a drug store nearby. Unstrung and exhausted, she rested there until the police arrived. To them she made complete acknowledgment of what she had done, justifying it by her assertion that Thompson had slandered her. She admitted that she had bought the whip for the particular purpose of whipping Thompson with it.

Thompson swore out a peace warrant against Mrs. Lee early Monday evening in the justice of the peace court of J. B. Ridley. The hearing upon that will be held Tuesday or Wednesday.

Thompson states that the ill feeling between Mrs. Lee and himself dates back to the time when they moved out from their rooms in the former Lee residence at 388 Peachtree street. Mrs. Lee grew angry, said he, because he and Mrs. Thompson would not remain in the house. Mrs. Lee says, on the other hand, that the ill feeling between them antedated that and originated while the Thompsons were under the same roof with herself and her husband.

Some four years ago Mrs. Lee and her husband were divorced in Miami, but in 1910 they were remarried in Columbus, Ga., the native city of Mrs. Lee. They have been separated again for the past two months or more.

WOMAN ASKS FOR WORK; SAYS MATE DECAMPED

Mrs. Emory Batta, wife of a tailor, 107 Fraser street, applied Tuesday to Matron Bohnefeld, at police headquarters, for the matron's assistance in securing work for her.

Her story to the matron was that her husband decamped about two weeks ago and took with him all their savings—about $500. She was left penniless and destitute, said Mrs. Batta.

Mrs. Batta stated that about a year ago her husband attempted to kill himself because of jealousy regarding herself.

SCHOOL BOOK CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN ON THURSDAY

Resolution Calling for Probe of Book Situation to Be Read in House

Thursday morning will find the house committee on education considering for the first time the resolution offered by Representative C. R. McCrory, of Schley county, calling for an investigation of school book prices in Georgia.

The resolution is based on a whereas which recites that the prices in this state are exorbitant; and it calls for a commission of five members from the house and three from the senate to probe deep into the whole affair and find the underlying reasons for the wide discrepancy between prices here and prices elsewhere.

Representative McCrory, armed with facts and figures, prepared to meet any generality with a specific statement, will be there before the committee to argue for a favorable report upon his resolution.

He is confident of success.

"I do not see how any person who recognizes that his responsibility is to the people of Georgia can oppose the resolution," said he Tuesday. "It is fair, conservative and eminently wise, I can prove to the complete satisfaction of any one, no matter how biased he may be, that Georgians are paying several times more for their school books than those same books could be bought for elsewhere. That condition exists. It is a fact which cannot be disputed successfully with creditable evidence. Therefore there is something to be investigated. And the investigation is what the resolution provides for."

FIGHT TO BE WARM.

Mr. McCrory is fighting strenuously to win Georgia's legislators around to the wisdom of testing. The representative from Schley believes that a primer and four readers can be tried first in Georgia and that their success will demonstrate unmistakably the excessive price of the books now on the market.

On a similar series published under authority of the Ontario provincial government, says he, the total cost of composition, copyright, drawings, half tones, cover plates and editing—everything, in fact, says the actual publication, was $8,694.89—for the books used during the first six months of the plan's operation, in the latter half of 1909. At the end of that period, says Mr. McCrory, the actual saving to purchasers had been $70,260, or more than eight times the entire cost of the books to the province. The minister of education in Ontario, says Mr. McCrory, basing his estimate upon those figures, announced that the saving upon that one series alone during the ten years of the contract for publication would amount to more than $1,000,000—every cent of which would remain in the pockets of the parents of school children in the province.

BIG SAVING IN STATE.

"On copy books alone, Georgia pays five times as much as Ontario pays," said Mr. McCrory Tuesday. "In Georgia we pay 5 cents for a copy book. In Ontario they pay 1 cent."

At the time the plan was put in operation by Ontario, said Mr. McCrory, the series of five readers compared by him were costing only $1.15 in Ontario as against $1.35 in Georgia.

"Yet they reduced the cost to 49 cents for the six," said he. "And we still are paying $1.35."

Mr. McCrory has received from J. H. Putnam, inspector of the public schools of Ottawa, a letter in which Mr. Putnam remarks:

"I have just returned from a four weeks' trip, visiting the schools of the largest American cities from Boston to Kansas City, and south as far as Washington. I cannot understand why the American people, who in ordinary matters of business are among the shrewdest people in the world, will allow themselves to be victims of publishing houses to such an extent that they pay two, three or four prices for their school books."

TO PLAN AT ONCE FOR MANUFACTURERS' SHOW

Committee Named by Brooks Morgan Meets Wednesday to Begin Work

The committee appointed by Brooks Morgan to work out the details of the proposed manufacturers' permanent exhibit will meet Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. in the chamber of commerce.

The committee consists of Brooks Morgan, chairman; Bolling H. Jones, J. K. Orr, Victor H. Kriegshaber, M. M. Davies, J. T. Rose and W. H. White, Jr.

Mr. Morgan appointed the committee in pursuance of a resolution passed by the manufacturers at their dinner in the Hotel Ansley last Thursday evening.

The committee when it has completed a plan will report back to the manufacturers, and steps will then be taken to establish the exhibit.

BIG RECEPTION FOR GEORGIA LAWMAKERS

Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Entertains Thursday Night at Driving Club

The reception Thursday night at the Piedmont Driving club by the Atlanta chamber of commerce to the governor, the president of the senate, the speaker of the house and the members of the legislature will be one of the most notable entertainment ever given in honor of Georgia lawmakers.

Handsomely engraved invitations have been mailed, and will be followed Wednesday by the lapel badges. The invitations bear the coat of arms of the state and of the city of Atlanta and the monogram of the chamber of commerce. The badges for the guests will be white with gold letters, and on the top of each badge will be written the name of the wearer. The members of the reception committee will wear blue badges with gold letters, and these also will have the names of the wearers, so that the committee and the guests may know one another's names at a glance.

Special cars for the legislators and the reception committee will leave the corner of Edgewood avenue and North Pryor street at 7 o'clock. As the reception will be informal, the legislators may go directly to the cars from their committee meetings or whatever work they may be doing at the time. They are not expected to take the trouble of putting on dress suits for the occasion.

The dinner will be served at guest tables, six or eight people to a table, on the terrace of the Driving club, where it will be cool and pleasant. There will be no set program of speeches, although some impromptu toasts will not be out of order. Covers will be laid for about 300, and about 100 of these will be members of the reception committee.

"We want the legislators to get acquainted with us," states Secretary Walter Cooper, of the chamber of commerce. "We want them to come in their every day lawmaking clothes and have a free and easy time. There will be nothing stiff and formal, and the Driving club has prepared a menu which we believe will send the legislators away fully satisfied."

WOULD QUELCH FEDERALS BY GUNS AND STARVATION

Gen. Cabral, Leader of Insurgent Forces, Expects Guaymas to Fall Soon

(By Associated Press.)

NOGALES, Ariz., July 8.—Starvation and artillery are forces upon which the constitutionalists are depending to obtain the ultimate surrender of the federals at Guaymas, according to General Juan C. Cabral, of the insurgent forces, who reached Nogales late last night from the beleaguered gulf port.

Cabral said he expected Guaymas to capitulate at any hour, as the constitutionalists were doing deadly work with their artillery and were aided in their attack by hunger of the federals, whose supplies of provisions and ammunition were practically exhausted.

Cabral declared the report that federal gunboats at Guaymas had joined the constitutionalists was baseless.

Young American Killed In Battle on July 4

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., July 8.—Fighting between the Mexican federals and Zapatistas took place at Tuxpan July 4, in which a young American attached to the consular office was shot and killed, according to Captain O'Gill, master of the British steamer Bloomfield, which arrived here yesterday. He said that other casualties were light, and that the rebels retired after exhausting their ammunition.

Yeggs on Their Way To North Once More

A bunch of "yeggs," working in small squads, is giving the postmasters in small towns a lot of trouble and incidentally the postoffice inspectors a lot of extra work.

Since July 6 offices have been entered at Benton, Fla., Doraville, Ga., Aleen, S. C., and Rincon, Ga.

R. E. Barry, inspector in charge in Atlanta, says that these roberies are the work of the winter "yegg" colony now on its way back north from a season in Florida.

It appears that the "yeggs" migrate to Florida, go into camp in the woods and fish and enjoy a "hobo" life during the winter. Along in the summer they break camp, and work their way back to the cooler climate of the north.

Incidentally they work on the small postoffices en route. No detailed reports on the robberies mentioned above have yet been received by the Atlanta office.

SCHOOL GIRLS WELCOME MR. WILSON TO LINKS

Secret Service Man and a Chauffeur Act as President's Caddies

(By Associated Press.)

HANOVER, N. H., July 8.—President Wilson tried new golf links today, this time the nine-hole course at Dartmouth college. He left Cornish early and, motoring thirty miles over green hills and valleys, arrived here before noon. The college town was filled with summer school students and some of the young women tripped enthusiastically across the links to greet the president. From the roadway groups of town folks watched the play.

The president played a fair game, but found the links much more difficult than the Woodstock course, where he was yesterday. Dr. C. A. Grayson was again his opponent. There were no caddies about when they arrived and a secret service man and one of the chauffeurs volunteered for the task.

ATLANTA'S OWN REGIMENT READY FOR ENCAMPMENT

Fifth Leaves Tuesday Night for Ten Days' Stay at St. Simons

Atlanta's own regiment, the Fifth infantry of the national guard of Georgia, will leave for summer camp at St. Simons, Tuesday evening, and during Wednesday forenoon will be busy establishing itself where the surf rolls and ocean breezes blow.

The regiment, in campaign uniform of khaki and heavy marching order, will parade from the armory to the Union depot early Tuesday evening, with its band at its head. The first companies will entrain at 8 o'clock on the first section of the two special A., R. and A. trains that will carry them to Brunswick. The second section will entrain half an hour later. Some 600 men are going. Colonel E. E. Pomeroy will be in command. Ten days will be spent in camp.

Though the purpose of the encampment is to increase the regiment's military efficiency, the camp life will not be all work. Various duties and studies will occupy the regiment each morning until 10 o'clock. Thereafter through the rest of the day the men will be free to enjoy themselves as they see fit until late afternoon, when dress parade will claim them for a while. Officers of the regular army will be in charge of the instruction.

A distinctive feature of this year's encampment will be the visit by the governor of Georgia and his chief of staff, accompanied by the commanding general in this brigade of the United States army and the adjutant general of Georgia. Governor and Mrs. John M. Slaton, Colonel and Mrs. Frederic J. Paxon, General R. K. Evans, U. S. A., and his adjutant general, Lieutenant Colonel Charles H. Barth, and General J. Van Holt Nash, adjutant general of Georgia, with his daughter, Miss Lida Nash, will arrive at the camp Saturday and will stay there until Monday. The ladies will stop at the hotel on the island, while the men of the party will "rought it" in camp with the soldiers. The party will be received with the governor's salute of seventeen guns.

REGIMENT'S PERSONNEL.

The headquarters staff will be composed of the following: Lieutenant Colonel O. H. Hall, Captain F. M. Cochran, adjutant; Captain S. P. Cronheim, quartermaster; Captain F. H. Lichenwalter, commissary, and Captain Robert F. Eakes, chaplain. On the regimental non-commissioned staff will be Sergeant Major E. B. Cass, Quartermaster Sergeant C. M. Wilson and Commissary Sergeant H. F. Williams. The color sergeants are O. M. Brisendine and J. C. Weaver, and the battalion sergeant majors are Messrs. Nix, Cox and Gray.

The regiment, which consists of twelve infantry companies, is divided into three battalions under the following commands: First battalion, Major I. T. Catron, First Lieutenant R. M. Langston, adjutant; Second Lieutenant J. J. Slaton, quartermaster and commissary; Second battalion, Major W. C. Hendrix, and First Lieutenant W. G. Mills, adjutant, and Second Lieutenant R. V. Anderson, quartermaster and commissary; Third battalion, Major W. J. Preston, First Lieutenant A. Morgan, adjutant.

Captain S. P. Cronheim has been detailed to take charge of the movement of the trains as regimental quartermaster. The first train will carry Colonel Pomeroy and headquarters staff, the band and hospital corps, and Companies A, B, C, D and E, with their officers. The second section will carry Companies F, G, H, K, L and M and their officers. Captain W. H. Leahy, who is in command of Company E, or the "Grady Cadets," will travel with the train also in his official capacity as general passenger agent of the A., B. & A. to look after the railroad details.

The program for the convention includes the reception of delegates from the state auxiliaries and from various fraternal organizations, the reports of officers and the chairmen of committees, speeches from many prominent women of the state, among them Mrs. Walter B. PARDONERS HEAR MANGHAM PETITION FOR CLEMENCY

Griffin Mill Owner Says He Is Guilty Only of Technical Violation

For the second time within the last several weeks the state prison commission Monday held a public hearing on the application for pardon of J. J. Mangham, of Griffin, who is serving a four-year sentence in the penitentiary, his conviction having grown out of the failure of the Boyd-Mangham Cotton Mill company.

Mangham was represented by Attorney Eugene Black, of Atlanta, while Emmet Owens, the solicitor general, represented the state, and opposed the granting of clemency.

It is contended by Mangham that his conviction was due to the adverse public sentiment which followed the failure of the mills with which he was connected, and that if he is guilty at all he is only guilty of technical violation of law.

On the previous hearing of this application for pardon the state was not represented, and it was for this reason that a second hearing was held.

GROOM AND GIRL BRIDE BOTH SWALLOW POISON

(By Associated Press.)

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., July 8.—Physicians at the Englewood hospital were hopeful today for the ultimate recovery of John L. Peltrowitz and the young woman he says is his bride, both of whom are suffering from a slow poison taken yesterday with suicidal intent. They were despondent because the young man's father had cut off his allowance and were fearful of separation.

The girl bride says she was Barbara M. Askerman, of Baltimore, before her marriage. Her statement was borne out by her sister.

SUFFERED AWFUL PAINS

For Sixteen Years. Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Moretown, Vermont.—"I was troubled with pains and irregularities for sixteen years, and was thin, weak and nervous. When I would lie down it would seem as if I was going right down out of sight into some dark hole, and the window curtains had faces that would peek out at me, and when I was out of doors it would seem as if something was going to happen. My blood was poor, my circulation was so bad I would be like a dead person at times. I had female weakness badly, my abdomen was sore and I had awful pains.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash and they certainly did wonders for me. My troubles disappeared and I am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. W. F. SAWYER, River View Farm, Moretown, Vermont.

BIG WATERWORKS PUMP TO UNDERGO REPAIRS

City in the Meantime Will Depend on Two Smaller Pumps and Reserve Supply

The Frank P. Rice pump at the river station of the waterworks has reached the point where it cannot be operated longer without thorough overhauling and new parts, and accordingly the work will be started at once.

W. Z. Smith, general manager of the waterworks, and Mayor Woodward went to the station Tuesday morning and after looking over the situation the mayor agreed with Manager Smith that no time should be lost in putting the pump in first-class running order.

In the meantime the city will be supplied by the two smaller pumps. Each has a capacity of 10,000,000 gallons every twenty-four hours. It takes something like 23,000,000 gallons to supply the city, but the two big reservoirs are full and there will be no shortage of water. Five or six weeks will be required to make the repairs.

The Frank P. Rice pump has not been in good running order for several years, and, in fact, has never given quite the satisfaction that it should. With new parts and a thorough overhauling, however, it is expected to perform better service than ever before. Its capacity is 18,000,000 gallons every twenty-four hours.

$85,000 FIRE DAMAGE TO AUGUSTA TEN-CENT STORE

Silver's Store Is Swept by Early Morning Fire of Unknown Origin

(By Associated Press.)

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 8.—Silver's 5 and 10 Cent store was swept by fire at 3 o'clock this morning and the stock of goods and fixtures entirely ruined. The total loss is estimated at $85,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The fire, which originated in the center of the building, was hard to fight and it was some time before it was under control. Damage was fully covered by insurance.

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anaemia, is common in young folks as well as old. Especially is it the case with those who work in ill-ventilated factories—or those who are shut up indoors in winter time with a coal stove burning up the oxygen or emitting carbonic (oxide) gas. This blood, or blood which lacks the red blood corpuscles, in anaemic people may have been caused by lack of good fresh air breathed into lungs, or by poor digestion or dyspepsia. Sometimes people suffer intense pain over the heart which is not heart disease at all, but caused by indigestion. Whatever the cause, there's just one remedy that you can turn to—knowing that it has given satisfaction for over 40 years.

THEATERS

Grand—Talking Pictures.
FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

Hines and Fox, listed as "singers who can sing and comedians who comede," prove the big noise at the Forsyth theater this week though they are closely pushed for first honors by two one-act players that furnish nearly a good laugh. There is plenty of variety to the bill, singing, dancing, acrobatic work and bicycle riding.

The pair of comedians who made such a distinct hit are good at acting, singing and playing. Several new and very farcial songs, all of which received their due share of applause, were introduced and it was some time before the duo were allowed to quit the stage.

The sketch, "After the Wedding," by Eva Taylor and company, and a playlet, "The Moving Picture Man," by Cecil Lean and company, are quite amusing. The moving picture play is especially funny and something entirely out of the ordinary. Two good voices go a long way towards making this number a hit.

Kennedy and Melrose, bouncing gymnasts; the Grace Sisters, dancers and singers; Houghton, Morris and Houghton, trick bicyclists, and Warren and Brainard complete the bill. All turn out average work.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Representative Bullard Advocates Legislative Reference Libraries.

A bill to provide for a legislative reference library for Georgia will shortly be introduced in the house by D. B. Bullard, the representative from Campbell county.

Mr. Bullard, who is a leading merchant at Palmetto, is one of the most progressive members of the general assembly. He has collected data from a number of states which have established legislative reference libraries and he expects to introduce a bill embodying the best features of them all, but which will be especially applicable to the needs of Georgia.

The reference library, as proposed by Mr. Bullard, will gather information concerning the laws and departmental work in every state in the union. This information will be so compiled and catalogued that it will be available at a moment's notice to any legislator or state official.

Mr. Bullard is a member of the state democratic executive committee with which he has been connected for six years.

Legislators Bring Reports Of Fine Crop Conditions.

Members of the general assembly from all over Georgia speak enthusiastically of the fine conditions of crops in the state this season, despite the lack of rain which has caused crops to be a little later than usual.

A noticeable trend of conversation among the legislators is in regard to the attitude of the farmers toward cotton. Although Georgia will continue to be a leading state in the production of the fleecy staple, they say, yet the farmers are getting away from the idea that cotton is absolute king and are diversifying their crops to such an extent that the yield will be one of great variety.

From Dougherty county comes the word that the outlook for pecans is bright; Bartow's representative speaks well of that county's corn crop; both cotton and corn are looking fine in Houston; cotton in Elbert is small but healthy; a diversified crop marks conditions in Bryan; the corn is particularly good in Greene, while Jenkins is raising more corn than usual as the need for it is greater.

Speaker Burwell Is Proving An Ideal Presiding Officer.

Although he has been in the chair but two weeks, Speaker Burwell has demonstrated quite conclusively that the house made no mistake in choosing him for its presiding officer. He has a thorough knowledge of parliamentary law, thinks and acts quickly and rules fairly and impartially.

On Monday Representative Fullbright introduced a resolution providing that all new county matters be held in abeyance until next year's session, the reason offered being that the creation of new counties will require constitutional amendments and that such proposition cannot be submitted to the people until the regular elections in October, of next year, which come along after the 1913 session of the general assembly.

Immediately the resolution was read Speaker Burwell ordered it referred to the rules committee. Representative Fullbright objected, making the point that it was a matter for the attention of the committee on privileges and elections. Speaker Burwell obtained the resolution from the clerk, read it through quickly and announced that it ought to affect the method and business of the house procedure, therefore, it should go to the committee on rules.

Bang! went the gavel, the subject was closed and the house went on with the consideration of other business.

Prominent Farm Journalist To Address the Legislature.

The senate passed a resolution Monday morning inviting Herbert Myrick to address the general assembly on July 15. The two houses will meet in joint session that day to hear Mr. Myrick speak. Mr. Myrick is head of the Orange Judd farm journals and is one of the greatest authorities on agricultural affairs in the country. He has appeared here before and is a popular and interesting talker.

Dunbar and Lawrence ex-Legislators, Were Interested Spectators Monday.

Two of the most influential members of the 1911-12 house of representatives —Clem E. Dunbar, of Richmond, and Alex A. Lawrence, of Chatham, were at the capitol Monday seeing how the new general assembly appeared in action.

Mr. Dunbar is a prominent attorney at Augusta, and Mr. Lawrence is one of the leaders of the Savannah bar. They both had cases before the supreme and appellate courts, and while at the capitol took occasion to visit the floors of the house and senate and greet their old friends among the lawmakers.

Governor Slaton is Overrun With Applications for Pardon

Governor Slaton is being literally besieged with applications for executive clemency. It appears that every convict who has been turned down by former governors is trying to get his application to the new governor ahead of those of his fellow-unfortunates.

Prisoners themselves are making appeals by letter and their attorneys, relatives and friends are calling upon the governor in person. Governor Slaton is informing them all that these applications must first be submitted to the prison commission, and he is insisting that the trial records shall accompany the applications when they reach him.

It has developed that many of the court stenographers in Georgia are disregarding the law which requires them to make stenographic records of the evidence in all felonies cases and that because of this fact many cases reach the governor without the record upon which he must depend for guidance.

In such cases the governor must depend upon affidavits from the judge, solicitor, jurors, other court officials and witnesses. Quite often this results in the case having quite a different aspect before the governor from what it had when it was on trial.

Few, if any, pardon cases will be considered by Governor Slaton until after the legislature adjourns, as his time is now spent altogether taken up with matters pending before the lawmakers.

Chaingangs in Georgia

"I Forgave you---
Should you not also have had compassion---
Even as I had pity on you"
---Matt. 18:32-33

The sun scorched.

Men with guns watched.

Chained men worked.

Shackles clanked.

Repeatedly, rapidly, continuously their flying tools crashed and bit into the earth.

The heat was hellish.

Their haste feverish.

Slacken, they dared not.

They feared the lash.

Four fell and died grading this block in the city street.

Driven to death?

"Not so," say the guards.

"They drank too much of ice water."

God knows; He pitied them; he took them from our cruelty.

Crucified between convicted thieves to one of these your Saviour said:

"Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise."

And having risen triumphant over the grave, to the Magdalene, first of all, He appeared.

He sought and saved the lost.

Paul wrote:

"Restore such an one in a spirit of gentleness, considering yourself, lest you also be tempted."

For Paul, in the blinding blaze on Damascus Road, had heard Him say:

"Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?"

"Who art thou, Lord?" he cried.

"I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest."

Hear Him today.

To you he says

"Inasmuch as you did it unto the least of these, you did it unto me. Inasmuch as you did it not, you did it not unto Me."

You forget.

Something is wrong.

The census shows that in January, 1910—

In Georgia's penal institutions were sixty-eight hundred and sixteen persons.

To every hundred thousand people, Georgia had two hundred and sixty-one prisoners.

The average in the United States was only one hundred and twenty-three.

What is wrong in Georgia?

Her prison population was equaled only by that of New York and Pennsylvania with their teeming millions. And those two had fewer per hundred thousand; New York having only one hundred and thirty-seven, Pennsylvania only one hundred and seven, while Georgia had two hundred sixty-one.

Why should we have more than twice the number per hundred thousand than the average state has?

The negro? Not so.

Our prisoners were twice those of Virginia.

Three times the number in South Carolina or Mississippi.

More than four times as many as in North Carolina or West Virginia.

Of all the Southern States, Texas was second to Georgia.

But Texas had twenty-four hundred ninety less prisoners—only one hundred eleven per hundred thousand against our two hundred sixty-one.

What is wrong in Georgia?

The Grand Jury of ——— County, after a recent investigation, said:

"The warden and all the guards were in the habit of keeping and drinking whiskey at the camp, particularly on Sunday.

"At least one or two of the guards, and probably others of the officers, have been known to be drinking or drunk in charge of convicts while at work on the public highways.

"Two of the guards have publicly insulted citizens.

"One of the guards has repeatedly been guilty of the grossest infractions of the law.

"Immorality of the most revolting character is allowed and winked at, if not actually encouraged by the warden and guards in camp life."

And this in Georgia—our home!

You know what is wrong.

Not the working of prisoners on our roads!

But these festering sores, the convict camps.

The stripes, the chains, and worse!

The brutalizing of men.

No question half so grave confronts the State.

Our Legislature should and will free us from our shame.

The market works about 7 to 9 points net higher on the hot weather reports from Texas and Oklahoma, but not enough realizing to cause reactions during the middle of the afternoon.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—Cotton futures opened steady, 1 point up to 2 points off, compared with the close of yesterday. Trade was indifferent and the weather man was favorable, as were cron reports in a. A moderate amount of selling developed in the early trading but was fairly well absorbed. Little outside business came in and trading was chiefly by professionals. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were 2 to 3 points under yesterday's close, on the most active months.

The market held this level for very little price change until 11 o'clock when the weekly weather reports were posted. They contained more or less unfavorable comments on temperatures in important sections of the belt, generally to the surprise of the shorts, and with considerable feeling for both accounts on which the market recovered its small decline and were 2 to 7 points over yesterday's last figures. The advance was not well sustained as ring sculpers were inclined to put profits away on that. At noon the market was steady at a rise of 2 to 5 points over yesterday's close.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS

Morris H. Rothschild & Co.: We think moderate purchases on declines like the present should prove profitable.

A. Neuberger & Co.: We still feel, however, that purchases in these moments of weakness are likely to prove profitable in the long run.

Miller & Co.: We continue to feel that the line of least resistance will be towards lower levels in the absence of really stimulating influences.

Stephen Weld & Co.: We expect lower prices.

FINANCIAL BUREAU ON STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 8.—Financial Bureau says: We would look for good buying opportunities in the general list when the industrials have had a much rate profits. Information channels favor purchases on reactions. Trading movements in the standard issues may be seen today.

P. O. COMMITTEE URGES MRS. HAM FOR PLACE

Senate Probe Declares Mrs. Longstreet Efficient, but Recommends New Postmaster

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The senate committee considering the nomination of Mrs. H. W. J. Ham for postmaster at Gainesville, Ga., in place of Mrs. Hellen D. Longstreet, has made a report that Mrs. Longstreet was "efficient, capable and satisfactory as postmaster." The report includes a letter from Postmaster General Burleson stating that in the naming of a successor, Mrs. Longstreet's efficiency was not taken into question.

Mrs. Longstreet testified before the committee that she had no objection to the confirmation of Mrs. Ham but merely wished to be vindicated of any charge of poor management of the postoffice.

The committee last night recommended the confirmation of Mrs. Ham, but it was delayed on objection of Senator Townsend until the report of the committee's investigation had been printed.

TRUITT & SON CASE IS BEFORE FEDERAL COURT

Almand and others, to restrain them from disposing of certain property alleged to have been fraudulently transferred, was resumed before Judge Newman in the federal court Tuesday.

The trustee alleges that certain real estate was transferred to Almand, son-in-law of S. M. Truitt, when S. M. Truitt & Son were insolvent.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: At the close of the lengthy holiday the talent found that rains had fallen over the eastern half of Texas, and that dry weather had come to those sections which have been suffering from drought, and such was the assertion made by the heartily inclined element and the market eased off a few points on the belief that the government weekly cotton region weather bulletin today will be construed as a bearish development. Secretary Hester's week end statistics, the promulgation of which was delayed by the holidays until today, naturally showed a heavy falling off rather than the bearish idea of consumption, in that spinners' takings for the week were shown to have been 262,000, against 215,000 last year. In this connection also the visible supply of American cotton, the spinners the world over are credited with having dug deeply into their invisible or reserve stocks of American cotton because of the long sustained steadiness of the market.

Weather map perfect, shows fair entire belt with slightly above normal temperatures except sections. Cooler Atlantics, no rain except Florida. Indications are for increasing cloudiness and local showers in southeastern quarter of the belt, fair elsewhere.

Louisiana: Tonight and Wednesday increasing cloudiness, showers in southeast portion tonight or Wednesday, light to moderate winds on the coast.

Arkansas and Oklahoma: Tonight and Wednesday generally cloudy.

Mississippi: Tonight and Wednesday generally fair; light northerly winds on the coast.

West Texas: Tonight and Wednesday generally fair.

Georgia and Alabama: Fair tonight and Wednesday.

Kentucky: Fair, tonight and Wednesday; warmer tonight.

Tennessee: Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; warmer tonight central and east portions.

Mississippi: Fair tonight and Wednesday.

North Carolina and South Carolina: Fair, warmer in the mountains.

Florida: Local showers except fair northwest.

It is, as yet, bids in New York prices as follows: January 11.29; July 12.00; August 12.06; October 11.38c.

New York: Small buying has advanced prices few points over yesterday's close on little news. Crop continues to do well and where rains have fallen are helpful. Feeling seems that conditions are rare. Sentiment is more bearish and crop talk should be disturbed that in absence of general business, it is not difficult to create scares with summer manipulation.—Miller & Coffee.

10 a. m., bids in New Orleans were, January 11.39; July 12.00; August 12.06; October 11.38c.

Weekly weather as expected, favorable except in Texas and Oklahoma. Greenville district, and Oklahoma. Weather forecast, where heavy rains did some damage.—Kofler.

SPECIAL CROP REPORTS

Dow Jones summary: Committee of railway managers and representatives of trainmen and conductors, to meet this evening, at which vote will be announced. Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company sells $1,250,000 6 per cent two-year notes to bankers at par. Mid-Continent oil advances 5 cents to 60 cents a barrel; directs 25 per cent increase in crude runs. Twelve industrials declined 0.15; Twenty active rails declined 0.52.

Wheat and corn higher in American London bean, ¾ to ⅞ off.

The weather has been well sustained considering the bank holiday. The beneficiaries of gold exports and the foreign situation, Government crop reports, financial troubles, etc. Prices in my today and believe it it is as favorable as expected that rains will prevail tomorrow and a purchase for at least a moderate rally.—Potter.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter-Ocean says: Sentiment in the wheat trade is bearish. It was the general impression last night that 950,000 local cars of the week. Bears are looking for a steady increase in the movement of the new wheat which combined with unusual receipts of old wheat for this season, they expect will gradually depress prices. Commission houses in Chicago were hellish saw that with prospects of no more wheat being exported than the amount of last year and with prices lower than a year, their belief that the level is reasonable. Cash people are mostly bearish on the market. While there may be some export business it will not be large enough to materially affect around the present basis. Goods of the corn trade was that local receipts were over three of their corn and many of them were short, the same condition existed in oats. The same condition as a week ago when a short interest was created. The traders were out in the country over the holiday and were inclined to sell corn on bulges on wheat.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say:

With exception of few showers in Canada and 1 bushels of wheat, prospects for precipitation, although rather cloudy conditions and threatening weather, there is a heavy short interest in the market, last night and this morning, the shorts should at least be a steadying influence and give some support.

Corn: We believe the market has had enough break for the time being.

Corn—We expect something of a rally.

Provisions—The market is apt to continue firm.

Logan leading seller of wheat on down turn. The market is in a position to respond to buying and Logan led in selling September to 86c. Seems to be more wanted at 86c.

The secretary of the Illinois Grain Dealers' association, states central Illinois is suffering for rain and a large crop will be very short. Corn in fair condition.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—Spot sales in Liverpool continue quiet, only 100 today at 3 points lower. Records show that sellers always large at this time owing to stock liquidation, merchants covering for July notices and making room for the next. Futures are full and 5 points lower today. Private crop reports from Liverpool say that the July-August position is the only one that operators there govern the market. On our side the existing position of affairs is favorable to the bull control of leading interests, prevents the execution of bear campaigns. The general future outlook and the markets are dull and quiet.

Weather conditions continue very favorable, particularly in Texas, where the rains have put which will hasten the maturity of early cotton and crops. There was no rain in the belt overnight and temperatures everywhere were very few and only local. It was cooler all over the Atlantic states.

Indications point to increasing cloudiness in the southeastern and southwestern quarters of the belt. Fair elsewhere. There is likely to be a local shower in the northwestern portion but it will be of very small proportions.

Our market was quiet but steady around last night's closing prices. The disposition is to buy on easy periods in anticipation of a professional rally in the old crop and to prepare for the usual summer crop scare.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter-Ocean says: Sentiment in the wheat trade is bearish. It was the general impression last night that 950,000 local cars of the week. Bears are looking for a steady increase in the movement of the new wheat which combined with unusual receipts of old wheat for this season, they expect will gradually depress prices. Commission houses in Chicago were hellish saw that with prospects of no more wheat being exported than the amount of last year and with prices lower than a year, their belief that the level is reasonable. Cash people are mostly bearish on the market. While there may be some export business it will not be large enough to materially affect around the present basis. Goods of the corn trade was that local receipts were over three of their corn and many of them were short, the same condition existed in oats. The same condition as a week ago when a short interest was created. The traders were out in the country over the holiday and were inclined to sell corn on bulges on wheat.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say:

With exception of few showers in Canada and 1 bushels of wheat, prospects for precipitation, although rather cloudy conditions and threatening weather, there is a heavy short interest in the market, last night and this morning, the shorts should at least be a steadying influence and give some support.

Corn: We believe the market has had enough break for the time being.

Corn—We expect something of a rally.

Provisions—The market is apt to continue firm.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—Spot sales in Liverpool continue quiet, only 100 today at 3 points lower. Records show that sellers always large at this time owing to stock liquidation, merchants covering for July notices and making room for the next. Futures are full and 5 points lower today. Private crop reports from Liverpool say that the July-August position is the only one that operators there govern the market. On our side the existing position of affairs is favorable to the bull control of leading interests, prevents the execution of bear campaigns. The general future outlook and the markets are dull and quiet.

Weather conditions continue very favorable, particularly in Texas, where the rains have put which will hasten the maturity of early cotton and crops. There was no rain in the belt overnight and temperatures everywhere were very few and only local. It was cooler all over the Atlantic states.

Indications point to increasing cloudiness in the southeastern and southwestern quarters of the belt. Fair elsewhere. There is likely to be a local shower in the northwestern portion but it will be of very small proportions.

Our market was quiet but steady around last night's closing prices. The disposition is to buy on easy periods in anticipation of a professional rally in the old crop and to prepare for the usual summer crop scare.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS QUIET AND LOWER

Union Pacific, Reading, Steel, Lehigh Valley and Copper Are Slightly Lower

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 8.—Stocks moved in a hesitating way at the opening today. There was little selling of Union Pacific and Steel, but otherwise trading was light. The majority of the active sales began today fractionally under yesterday's close, with the most noticeable heaviness in Union Pacific, which declined nearly a point.

Although there was an undercurrent of heaviness in the early trading, values did not suffer much. Bear selling of Union Pacific was opposed but support was noticeable in other stocks that succumbed in yesterday's forced selling. The whole list developed a better tone when professional selling let up.

Resumption of selling met with temporary success, but buying orders came in as the bear efforts were not providing general selling and before noon a full recovery was made. Speculative sentiment continued the better on the side, some concern being expressed over Erie rankings, which are expected to be affected by foreign liquidation. Favorable influences, such as large crop reports, were not appreciated on an unusually good showing in the government's forthcoming report were ignored.

Bonds irregular.

Renewed heaviness in stocks was produced by the breaking off of negotiations between the trainmen and managers of the eastern railroads in their efforts to effect an amicable settlement. A further engagement of $2,000,000 to Paris facilitated the reaction which began at the close and was the lowest of the morning.

Bonds irregular about a sustained movement either way were abandoned when rentative selling or buying orders failed to bring out their limit. Total sales, par value, $1,750,000. United States bonds unchanged.

Closed heavy.

NEW YORK COTON LETTER

NEW YORK, July 8.—The market has ruled dull but firm in sympathy with higher cables and buying of August by brokers usually trading for the larger spot crop interests who are bought October. Liverpool was a moderate buyer of new crops. Local traders and Wall street sold. Crop news and the weekly weather report was favorable and majority sentiment is rather bearish but the strength in August and small stocks here acts as a check to bearish endeavor. The outlook is for a trading market with a narrow range pending further crop developments.—Anderson.

ASK JOINT COMMITTEE TO CHOOSE MANSION SITE

Committees of House Get Busy—New County Hearings Tuesday Afternoon

Already a plan is on foot in the house to arrange for the sale or other disposition of the governor's mansion and to provide a more suitable residence for the state's chief executive.

The move was made in the shape of a resolution introduced Tuesday morning by Representative Methvin, of Dodge, and provides for a joint commission of eight to be appointed, five from the house and three from the senate, to receive bids and propositions looking towards the sale or swapping of the present property and the purchasing of another site more desirable for the location of the mansion. The commission is given the power to receive or reject all bids. The resolution was referred to the committee on public property.

A like commission was appointed at the last session of the legislature, but it failed to reach an agreement and reported after deliberations that lasted through practically the whole time.

A majority of the bills that came up for consideration before several of the house committees Monday afternoon will be returned with favorable recommendations.

General agricultural committee No. 1 was unanimous in recommending the passage of the "dissemination of cattle" bill, introduced in the house by Messrs. Smith and Field of DeKalb. The bill gives the state veterinarian authority to examine cattle and other domestic animals and to condemn such as are infected with any contagious disease and order their slaughter. At the same time it is provided that the county in which the owner resides reimburse him for his loss.

The committee on education discussed at length all bills introduced with a view to securing compulsory education and while no definite action was taken, sentiment was largely in favor of a compulsory education law.

General judiciary No. 1 approved the bill of Shelby Myrick, of Chatham, providing that policemen and all other officers of the law be allowed to carry concealed weapons. While this is the custom in Georgia now, it is none the less illegal as the law now stands.

As originally drawn the bill included city detectives, but the provision was stricken upon the insistence of several members.

No action was taken by the Western and Atlantic committee in regard to bills introduced with a view to making some disposition of the lease of the property. The subject was discussed in a general way, but no decision was reached and no definite plan of action decided upon.

General judiciary No. 2 refused to recommend for passage the bill of Representative Berry, of Whitfield, providing a penalty for any one found guilty of driving an automobile or other steam, gasoline or electrically propelled vehicle while in an intoxicated condition.

Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the committee on constitutional amendments will hear in the house chamber the first of the new county propositions. Candler and Barrow are the first to be heard from, each county being allowed one hour for the hearing. The time is to be divided equally between those for and against the proposed new counties, thirty minutes being allotted to each side.

OLD SUIT AGAINST MRS. GRACE DROPPED BY COURT

The last litigation in this county in which the famous Mrs. Daisy Grace was involved, was ended Tuesday morning, when Judge W. D. Ellis allowed Etheridge & Etheridge, counsel for E. E. Lawrence, to withdraw an injunction suit against Mrs. Grace.

The suit was brought by Mr. Lawrence, her husband's business partner, when Mrs. Grace was languishing in the tower in May, 1912, and sought to restrain her from claiming certain property alleged to belong to the partnership.

The case was never brought to trial and now apparently it has been settled.

ATHENS PLANS TO SHOW LEGISLATORS BIG TIME

Members of Both Houses Will Be Guests of the Classic City Next Saturday

Plans for the entertainment that the members of the legislature are to receive in Athens Saturday as the guests of the chamber of commerce of that city, were told in Atlanta Tuesday by Crichton C. Callaway, secretary of the Athens body. Mr. Callaway declared that he had obtained the personal promise of nearly every member of the senate and the majority of the house members to attend and participate in the good things that Athens has prepared for all of them.

Athens' invitation was accepted by both houses of the general assembly some two weeks ago, right after the legislature convened.

According to Mr. Callaway, the legislators will be the guests of Athens from the time they board the special train at the Union depot in Atlanta Saturday morning until they debark from that same train in Atlanta that evening. A special committee representing the chamber of commerce will arrive in Atlanta from Athens Friday and will remain until Saturday morning, accompanying the lawmakers to the Classic City as an escort of honor.

Mr. Callaway states that the special train will leave the old depot at 8 o'clock Saturday morning and will arrive in Athens at 11:45 o'clock. First the legislators will be escorted to the state normal school. At 1:30 o'clock the barbecue will be served. At 3 o'clock the state university and the state college of agriculture will be visited in that order. At 6 o'clock the day's program will be at an end, and an hour later (6 o'clock Atlanta time) the legislators' special train will leave Athens for Atlanta, a basket supper will be served on the train as it rolls toward Atlanta.

SENATE SETS AUGUSTA TRIP FOR JULY 19TH

Bill to Legalize Bond Issue to Pay Teachers Is Introduced

The floor of the state senate was the scene of a hot debate at Tuesday morning's session in regard to the visit to the city of Augusta, some senators holding that it would be a waste of valuable time and others declaring that it would be a profit to the state and to the members to go and would, moreover, be an insult to the citizens of Augusta to refuse.

The original resolution setting the date of the visit as July 16 was reconsidered and another passed which sets the visit for Saturday, July 19, on which day it was decided that the senate shall adjourn dies non. An attempt to reconsider the Augusta resolution was brought in the house Tuesday morning, but was dropped because the senate had not acted upon it. The decision of the senate will be returned to the house for action Wednesday morning.

Senator M. C. Tarver, of the Forty-third, moved that the senate reconsider the original resolution. The motion was carried by a vote of 22 to 9, whereupon Senator R. T. DuBose, of the Thirtieth, offered a substitute resolution setting the date of the visit for Saturday, July 19. His motion was passed, with amendments offered by Senator G. A. Harrell, of the Twelfth, proposing that the senate adjourn dies non on that day. There was but one dissenting vote.

Nearly the whole of Tuesday morning's session was taken up with discussion on the Augusta subject. A number of bills were introduced, chief of which was one offered by Senator Hixon, which will legalize the issue of bonds for the purpose of paying the salaries of school teachers. The bill will amend the constitution, adding the payment of salaries of teachers to the list of subjects for which a bond issue on the part of the state may be made. The purpose of the bill is simply to provide a method of paying teachers back salaries for which the state has no money now. Later on, if the amendment is passed, the bond issue will solve the problem.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS.

Various committees are organizing and will get down to the consideration of bills in the near future. Among these was the temperance committee, which organized Tuesday morning. This committee postponed action on three bills, a bill making the Webb law legal in Georgia, a bill making the purchase of liquor for another party from a blind tiger by one party a misdemeanor on the part of the party doing the purchasing, and a bill prohibiting the advertisement of spiritous liquors in the newspapers.

The penitentiary committee met Tuesday morning and postponed action in regard to the probate judge bill.

BACKBONE OF HEAT WAVE BROKEN; HIGHEST MARK 88

The first break in the long heat wave that has held Atlanta in its grasp for several weeks came Monday night, when the thermometer in Weather Man von Herrmann's office registered as low as 66 degrees before morning.

During the night the mercury ranged between 65 and 70 degrees, reaching the lowest mark early Tuesday morning. The maximum for Monday was 88, and indications now point to cooler weather for the remainder of the week, with an absence of the usual thunder showers.

GEORGIA SUFFRAGETTES ONCE MORE TURNED DOWN

House Refuses to Consider Request for Use of Hall for State Convention

An effort to bring up for consideration the resolution of Mr. Smith of Fulton, tendering the use of the house chamber to the suffragists of Georgia on July 9 and 10, was unsuccessful Tuesday morning when several members refused unanimous consent.

A few minutes later a flood of local and general bills began to pour in along with the reading of several bills for the second time, and just forty minutes after the house of representatives convened adjournment was effected by a vote of 62 to 57, precluding any possibility of a later motion to act upon the resolution.

The majority of the bills introduced Tuesday were local in character, very few of a general nature reaching the desk of Reading Clerk McClatchey.

Following closely upon the resolution introduced by Henry J. Fullbright Monday, to defer action in the matter of new counties until the next session of the general assembly, Representative Pharr of Gwinnett introduced a similar resolution, asking that the committee on constitutional amendments be instructed not to report on new county bills during this session. The matter was referred to the rules committee.

GEORGIA PAINTER POLICIES NOT PAID BY PENN MUTUAL

Insurance Herald, of Atlanta, Says Only One Old Policy Was Paid

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 8.—Some days ago it was announced that the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company had paid its $100,000 policies on the life of the late E. O. Painter. This week the Insurance Herald, of Atlanta, has this to say:

"A usually authoritative source of information last week caused us to carry an item to the effect that the Penn Mutual had paid the entire claim of about $100,000 of the estate of the late E. O. Painter of Jacksonville, who is generally believed to have committed suicide a few weeks ago. It appears at this time that this was an error and that the Penn Mutual merely paid a few thousand of insurance taken out more than a year ago and returned about $1,700 that they had paid to it as premiums on the new policies."

When asked about the article the Painter lawyers refused to talk saying that they would continue to remain silent on all matters connected with the insurance.

Preserve the Smoke Law.

If, as Chairman Harwell of the Smoke Board apprehends, particular interests are planning to seek exemption from the city smoke ordinance, the Atlanta public should clear its throat and stand ready to shout, "No."

Should an inch of favoritism be granted now, an ell will soon be taken; should one class of stacks be allowed to spit soot in the community's face, Atlanta will lapse back into its Dark Ages of grime when we had no laws whatsoever against this evil. To exempt apartment houses from the ordinance would be a step toward exempting hotels and office buildings and from that point our descent into Avernus would, indeed, be easy.

The people of this city—and when we say the people we mean the rank and file of business men and home owners, including progressive manufacturers—will tolerate no suggestion to weaken the present anti-smoke law; on the contrary, they are intensely of the opinion that the law should be strengthened, or at least that it should be enforced and sustained in all its provisions. Years were required to secure the enactment of this fair and sorely needed measure. Long months have been required to put it into efficient operation. It is one of the most liberal and lenient laws of its kind in any American city that makes a pretense of reducing excessive smoke. We are just now beginning to enjoy its benefits. A proposal to destroy or even to circumscribe its usefulness would be preposterously out of place and out of time.

The smoke inspector and his official associates are gradually accomplishing results. It is a noteworthy and gratifying fact that they have the co-operation of scores of property owners to whom the ordinance applies; and wherever that is the case, smoke is being reduced, fuel and power are being economized and the individual as well as the public is being benefited. Shall we pause in the midst of this hopeful, constructive task and by granting special favors to special interests, jeopardize, if not undo, the good work that has been so slowly and laboriously done?

In behalf of the health as well as the property of Atlanta, no such proposition should for a moment be entertained. If we are ever to be rid of the nuisance, the damage and the injury caused by excessive smoke, we must preserve the integrity of the existing smoke ordinance. The public will hear to no exemptions, and we do not believe that Council will.

The powers don't seem to be disposed to mix it with the Balkans.

For our part, we are willing to admit that the president earns his vacation.

What Helps the Consumer Is Bound to Help Business.

The business philosophy of downward tariff revision is summed by the Kansas City Times in a single terse sentence: "Whatever helps the consumer helps those who supply the consumer."

If the prosperity of the United States were dependent upon any one group of men or interests, whose particular welfare would be a guarantee of the common good, then the special favors which the high tariff has granted *might be defensible, if not praise*worthy. But the fact is that the prosperity of this country depends upon the welfare of the average citizen—the average laborer, the average farmer and merchant and business man, whatever his pursuit may be. It is from these unknown and innumerable little streams that the great tides of commerce gather volume and flow freely onward with enriching power. And so any system that burdens or hinders their course is inexpedient as well as unjust.

The high protective tariff has been maintained on the fallacious theory that the way to make the nation prosperous is to tax the rank and file of the consumers for the benefit of a comparatively few special interests. The result has been prosperity of a kind, no doubt; but not the kind of prosperity that counts for national strength and progress. The important thing, as President Wilson has so aptly said, is not that the majority of the people shall be permitted to share in the prosperity of a few but that they shall be free to originate prosperity of their own.

This is the great heritage of business liberty which a thorough downward revision of the tariff will vouchsafe. By overthrowing monopoly, it will open the way for individual enterprise and initiative. By lifting a tax from the income of the average man and the average family, it will clear and quicken the common channels of trade. The country awaits the effect of the pending tariff bill, which now seems assured of an early passage, not only with confidence and equanamity but also with hope for better times. "Speculative business of Wall Street," as the Times says, "may be as fearful now as it always is when any change is coming. But you cannot make merchants afraid of a condition that means there will be more money to spend and more people that have it to spend. Whatever helps the consumer, helps those who supply the consumers.".

And as for that matter, Washington D. C., isn't so much of a winter resort.

Looking back in the files of our almanacs, we find dog days among th forecasts.

Georgia's Opportunity In The Anti-Malaria Fight.

The organization in Virginia of a society for the study and prevention of malaria is said to be the first step toward a nationwide campaign against this far-flung and costly disease. The movement has enlisted the support not only of physicians and health officials but also of business men who realize the economic loss which malarial conditions entail. This is a timely enterprise. If it is important to protect a State's crops against destructive insects, it is vastly more so to protect a State's people against a malady that impairs their productive power and robs them of life itself.

Organized effort can accomplish in this field what it has accomplished in the crusade against tuberculosis. Education will be followed by prevention. Communities will be awakened to the importance of removing the sources of malaria and will also be shown the means of doing so. It is expected that the federal authorities will lend their assistance and that in time organizations similar to that in Virginia will be formed throughout the country; and when public interest in this problem is once thoroughly aroused we may be sure that it will become effective.

The longest and surest stride that Georgia could take toward cleansing its malarial districts would be the adoption of a systematic plan of swamp drainage. In this connection, it is interesting to note the testimony of our State geological survey:

> "It is a well known fact, demonstrated by the medical profession, that malarial diseases so prevalent in swamp lands are due to the bite of a certain species of mosquitoes which almost invariably abound in greater or less numbers in such places. The drainage of swamp lands destroys the breeding places of these insects, and as a result malaria, diseases disappear. The census of 1870 gave the number of deaths from malaria in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa for the preceding year as fifty-two and five-tenths per thousand of the total, while the census of 1890, when large areas of land had been drained, the death rate due to malaria was only eight and six-tenths per thousand. For the east coast lands of Georgia, South Carolina and Florida, the death rate from malaria in 1870 was sixty-six and two-tenths per thousand and in the same State's in 1890 the rate was sixty-one and seven-tenths per thousand. These figures show that malarial conditions did not materially change in the three last-named States during the two decades, which is accounted for in large measure, by the lack of drainage improvement. The facts brought out in the comparison of these two groups of States—in one of which drainage had been carried on to a large extent, and in the other but little or no drainage was attempted—demonstrate conclusively that malaria depends largely on swamp conditions, which can be removed by drainage."

The bill now pending in the Legislature, providing for the appropriation of five thousand dollars annually for a period of five years in order that Georgia may secure a like sum from the federal government for the reclamation of its swamp and overflow lands is a measure of vital importance to the sanitary as well as agricultural and economic interests of the State. It offers a practical and far-reaching means of placing our commonwealth in the forefront of the nationwide campaign now marshaling against malaria.

Bonnet the Horse.

Generally speaking it may be true, as the president of the National Education Association declares, that horses receive more attention than children; but there are particular instances where the odds are grievously against the horse.

During the last week twenty-three horses have suffered sunstrokes on the streets of Atlanta, simply because their owners or drivers failed to take a few easy and inexpensive precautions for the poor animal's protection.

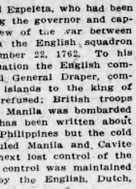
A horse is as much entitled to a bonnet on a blistering summer's day as a woman is entitled to a new hat on Easter morning.

The man who wantonly makes a city horse stand long hours under a cruel sun should himself be made to go bareheaded and by "exposing himself to feel what wretches feel," learn the first principles of humanity.

THE PHILIPPINES

XXVI.—THE SPANISH AND THE FILIPINO.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.



One of the droll incidents of the Spanish-American War was the complete ignorance of the Spanish governor of the island of Guam, which is about 800 miles from Manila, that a state of war existed between his country and the United States. When a squadron anchored off the coast of Guam, His Excellency was rowed out in his chic little boat, and upon boarding the American flag-ship explained that he did not salute the visitors for the simple reason that he had no powder. He was greatly astonished when informed of the war between the two countries. But this governor of 1898 was merely repeating the performance of the man who was governor-general of the Philippines when the English took Manila in 1762.

That functionary was Miguel Ezpeleta, who had been bishop of Cebu before becoming the governor and captain-general. The first he knew of the war between England and Spain was when the English squadron entered Manila Bay on September 22, 1762. To his great astonishment and indignation the English commanders, Admiral Cornisa and General Draper, commanded the surrender of the islands to the king of England. The demand was refused; British troops were landed and on October 5 Manila was bombarded and captured. A great deal has been written about the British occupation of the Philippines but the odd facts are that the English ruled Manila and Cavite only, and that the Spaniards next lost control of the rest of the archipelago. This control was maintained despite intermittent attacks by the English, Dutch, Portuguese and Chinese.

* * *

Unfortunately, murder, arson, robbery and rapine distorted the face of the islands during this period of disorganization. These crimes were committed in the name of patriotism, for example, that they were done in order to fight the British. Two years later France, England and Spain concluded a treaty of peace and on March 31 the English sailed away.

The next interesting event was the expulsion of the Jesuits in compliance with the decree of Charles III, on April 2, 1767, that the order should be banished from all his possessions. Everything the Jesuits owned was seized by the government and the members of the order were succeeded by the Recolatos. At the time of their expulsion from the islands they had become very rich. They had built magnificent churches and convents in many towns. In Manila they owned the church of San Ignacio, San Jose College, a seminary where Filipinos were educated for the priesthood, and the only printing press in the islands.

* * *

When the Spaniards took the Philippines, they found a very primitive form of government, if it could be called a government at all. The people were divided into tribes and right was always on the side of the tribal chiefs who ruled their people as they pleased. Slavery existed in many evil forms; home life was at a very low order and everything indicated a semi-civilized state. For over a century Spain did very little to better the conditions of the Filipino people or to widen their narrow intellectual horizon. In fact, her entire rule of over 300 years did very little, compared with what could have been done. Furthermore, the progress that was made by inches was tarnished by corrupt acts and a system of graft about which the simple-minded Filipinos knew nothing until the advent of the Spaniards. Had it not been for their religious zeal, the benefits to the Filipinos of Spanish rule would have been practically nil. Even the religious benefits were far from being an unmixed blessing, since human nature is human nature the world over, although the Catholic priests accomplished a great deal for which modern historians have given them very little credit.

* * *

As to matters of government, however, it was not until 1810 that the Philippine islands along with the other Spanish-American possessions in America were permitted to send a delegate to the Spanish Cortes. This privilege, so tardily bestowed, was little more than an empty honor. The way it was handled by the Spanish crown may have inspired that teasing adage of the present day, "Now you see it, and now you don't." Three years later this privilege was taken away from the Filipinos. In 1821 it was again given them but in 1823 Ferdinand VII. in one of his many attacks upon the Spanish constitution deprived the Filipinos of their deputy for the second time. The first time the Filipinos lost their right to a seat in the Spanish Cortes there was a great deal of dissatisfaction which resulted in the uprising of 1814.

* * *

Every new governor-general took a lot of parasites with him. They were given jobs which brought in large fees so that they were able to retire in affluence whenever new bloodsuckers came in to take their places. Many of these positions brought to the incumbent the equivalent of from $10,000 to $25,000 annually. The graft of the higher officials in Manila or the district commands amounted to a great deal more. Civil office holders were not the only guilty ones in this regard. According to Doctor T. H. Pardo de Tavera, who still lives in Manila, in volume one of the United States Census of the Philippine Islands of 1903, the friars who acted as curates of their parishes frequently made from $4,000 to $10,000 a year.

The Filipinos themselves as they learned the tricks of this scientific "government" were not averse to sharing in it. Their returns were small only because the Spaniards got most of the fat jobs for themselves. It was seldom that the Filipinos held offices of greater importance than minor clerkships in the central government or head men of the villages or barrios as they were called. From first to last the Filipinos were kept down. They were required to work forty days labor a year to the public service or to suffer a fine. In 1844 this method was changed so that each male was forced to pay a poll-tax that varied from the equivalent of seventy-five cents to seventeen dollars per annum, and to work for the government fifteen days a year. The Filipinos had to take off their hats whenever a Spaniard passed. No Filipino dare hesitate to step quickly out of the path of a Castilian who happened to come his way. In case the Spaniard was a priest, his hand was kissed in a devout manner by subservient Filipinos. To quote Doctor Tavera:

* * *

"No Indian, as the Filipinos were called by the Spaniards, was allowed to sit at the same table with the Spaniard even though the Spaniard was a guest in the Indian's house. The Spaniards addressed the Filipinos by the pronoun 'thou', and although many of the Spaniards married pure-blooded native women their wives were always looked down upon in society as belonging to an inferior class. From the beginning of the nineteenth century, the laws abolished from the actual customs which obtained and the racial friction or ill-feeling increased in proportion to the increased education of the Filipino people and to the greater influence which the contemporary happenings in Europe had on the minds of the natives.

"The favorite weapon used by the friars for the purpose of chastisement was the whip, the municipal officers acting as the servitors of the local court.

* * *

While it is true that the government instructions recommended that the natives should be encouraged to work the actual result obtained was that work was discouraged and a premium put upon idleness and vice. In addition to Sundays, there were observed throughout the islands thirty-two other holidays and to these were added the patron saint's day of each town whose feast was celebrated for a term of nine days; in addition to which each barrio or ward had its special saint's day and the feast in its honor lasted three days. Besides all these the local court and governors of the provinces and other officials had their particular saint's days and for these and other reasons there never was lack of some excuse to quit work for the purpose of doing honor to some saint or some official.

Rhythmic Prose

(Atlantic Monthly.)

We have stifled our language; we have debased it; we have been afraid of it. But some day it will reassert itself, for it is stronger than we, alike our overlord and avatar. Deep in the soul of man dwells the lyric impulse, and when his song cannot be the song of the poet it will shape itself in rhythmic prose, that it may still be cadenced and modulated to change with the changing thought and sound an obligato to the moods of the author's spirit.

How wonderful has been our prose, grave and chastely rich when Hooker wrote it, striding triumphant over the pages of Gibbon on tireless feet, ringing like a trumpet from Emerson's white house in Concord, modulated like soft organ music heard afar in Newman's lyric moods, clanging and clamorous in Carlyle, in Walter Pater, but as the soft fall of water in a marble fountain, while exquisite odors flood the Roman twilight and late bees are murmurous, a little of all, perhaps, in Stevenson!

We too, we little fellows of today, could write as they wrote consciously, rhythmically, if we only cared, if we only dared. We ask for the opportunity, the encouragement. Alas! that also means a more liberal choice of graver subjects, and a more extensive employment of the essay form. Milton could hardly have been Miltonic on a lesser theme than the Fall of the Angels, and Walter Pater wrote of the Mona Lisa, not Lizzie Smith, of Davenport, Iowa. It is doubtless of interest to learn about Lizzie, but she hardly inspires us to rhythmic prose.

The Servant Problem Old

(Westminster Gazette.)

The domestic servant problem is not one of recent years, though recently it may have become more pressing. From certain letters written by Mrs. Carlyle in 1849 and just made public it would seem that she too had her troubles in this respect, for we find her writing to a friend:

> Another presented herself today, a woman with a face to split a pitcher, and who came seemingly to hire me and not to be hired by me. After surveying me—rather contemptuously I must own—she proceeded to ask me a string of questions which I answered to see how it would end. "Did I keep no more servants than one?" "Was I in the habit of often changing my servants?" To this last question I answered, "as often as they seem to require changing, and on the whole I should not suit her, I was afraid."

So for more than sixty years, and no doubt much longer, it has been the same old story.

Telephone Bell jangles.

Voice: "Is this Mr. Shelley Brown, the draftsman?"

Brown: "Yes."

Voice: "This is Mr. Chumley-Huskisson of the vestry of St. Martin's. How long, sir, will it take you to prepare plans for a new church for our parish?"

Brown: "A new church! I beg your pardon. And where will the new church be placed?"

The Voice: "On the site of the old one."

Brown: "But the old church is still standing!"

The Voice: "I have reliable information from my nurse girl, who is a close friend of the cook of the next door neighbor of Mrs. Wimble-Bang, the millionaire petroleum, that the church will not be standing tomorrow morning."

And it wasn't.

THE RAGTIME MUSE

BALLAD OF THE FOURTH-CLASS POSTMASTER.

It was a fourth-class postmaster,
Upstanding in his pride—
"No one can rob
Me of my job
By vulgar 'pull'," he cried.

"By civil service test alone
A man must stand or fall;
By merit I
Shall live or die
(Officially) that's all!

"Who seeks to gain my sinecure
Must know a lot of things—
Of things in books
Of hooks and crooks
And cabbages and kings!

"This list of questions here will lay
My rivals on the shelf!
What? These for me?
An outrage! Get
I answer 'em myself!"

It was a fourth-class postmaster
Who groaned o'er every line.
"Give this here job
To some poor slob,"
He wrote, "for I resign!"

Out of the Mouths of Babes

"Mamma," said Annie after the loss had been discovered, "I wish God had sent Mr. Noah with his ark so he could have saved our cow."

The mother of five year old George had been ill for several days.

"How is your mamma this morning Georgie?" asked a neighbor.

"Oh, she's better," replied the little fellow, "but she isn't quite so better as she was yesterday."

HOO'S HOO

Who's all the works in Deutschland, where they raise the foaming stein and hoch der kaiser with a will and sing "Die Wacht Am Rhein?" Who orders up a battleship and does it in a jiff when some one tells him Johnnie Bull has bought another skiff? Who hears the czar of Russia has annexed a new recruit and adds a regiment or two with gatling guns to boot? Who quite agrees that brotherhood should be our guiding star—then taxes all the millionaires to raise a fund for war? Who gives King George the kiss of peace—the czar the hug of joy, and meanwhile winks the other eye? That Kaiser Wilhelm boy.

FLUNKED

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

Never mind! That you have flunked in school does not always mean either that you are lazy or incompetent. On the contrary, it may be an evidence of your ability. Schools are arranged upon the principle that there are so many cubic feet of knowledge which a pupil is supposed to put into his brain in order to entitle him to pass from one grade to another.

Also upon the theory that you cannot know about a given subject unless you are able to talk or write about it; in other words, to pass a written or oral examination.

Both of these propositions are unsound. They rest upon a theory of education which is out of date; the theory that education consists in a student measuring up to a prearranged system.

True education consists in the development of the individual child's faculties, whatever they may be. A child may be by nature incapable of mastering mathematics as Lord Macaulay was. He may have a natural antipathy to Latin and Greek. His Creator may have made him with an inborn taste for music, or for agriculture, or for machinery, and with possibilities of great efficiency in these directions. A "system" of education that takes no account of individual trend is not educational at all, for education is the bringing out of what is in a person and not stuffing into him what he can never digest nor assimilate. The idea of grading pupils by the amount of text-book stuff they can eat mentally is medieval.

The examination is pure humbug. No examination is any test of what one understands or can do.

Writing or speaking is a gift, often it is a trick. The pupil who can tell a thing most glibly is by no means the one who best comprehends it. A man may be able to manage a bank, or make horseshoes, or speak a foreign language, or command a regiment, and be utterly awkward and incoherent when he attempts to write about how he does it. One of the best writers on maritime affairs was only a third-rate practical seaman.

The trouble with the school system is that there are too many children to each teacher. Real teaching being impossible, the labor saving devices of "grading" and "examinations" are resorted to.

Stingy taxpayers, ignorant school boards, and narrow pedagogues combine to lay the blame on the child, branding him as "dull" when they cannot squeeze his genius into their artificial world.

They may call you stupid, but never mind! So also they called David Livingstone, Richard Wagner, Charles Dickens and Stefansson, the explorer.

Quips and Quiddities

"Sorry, gentlemen," said the new constable, "but I'll hev' to run ye in. We been keepin' tab on ye sence ye left Huckleberry Corners."

"Why, that's nonsense!" said Dubbleigh. "It's taken us four hours to come twenty miles, thanks to a flabby tire. That's only five miles an hour."

"Sure!" said the new constable, "but the speed law round these here parts is ten mile an hour, and by Jehosaphat, I'm goin' to make you ottermobile fellers live up to it."

Tourist—"My physician advises me to locate where I may have the benefit of the south wind. Does it blow here?"

Landlord—"My! But you are fortunate in coming to just the right place! Why, the south wind always blows here."

Tourist—"Always? Why, it seems to be blowing from the north now."

Landlord—"Oh, it may be coming from that direction, but it's the south wind. It's coming back, you know."

Kirby Stone—"I hate to mention it, dear, but I must tell you that business has been awfully poor lately. If you could economize a little in dresses—wear something plainer——"

Mrs. Stone—"Certainly, dear. I shall order some plainer dresses tomorrow."—Puck.

There was once a chap who went skating too early, and all of a sudden that afternoon loud cries for help began to echo among the bleak hills that surrounded the skating pond.

A farmer, cobbling his boots before his kitchen fire, heard the shouts and yells and ran to the pond at breakneck speed. He saw a large black hole in the ice and a pale young fellow stood with chattering teeth shoulder deep in the cold water.

The farmer laid a board on the thin ice and crawled out on the edge of the hole. Then, extending his hand, he said:

"Here, come over this way, and I'll lift you out."

"No, I can't swim," was the impatient reply. "Throw a rope to me. Hurry up. It's cold in here."

"I ain't got no rope," said the farmer; and he added angrily: "What if you can't swim—you can wade, I guess! The water's only up to your shoulders."

"Up to my shoulders?" said the young fellow. "It's eight feet if it's an inch. I'm standing on the blasted fat man who broke the ice!"

Mayor Rockwell of Akron, was condemning the claim, often put forward by the rich, that poverty is good for the character.

"Poverty is good for nobody," he said. "It embitters the mind, hardens the heart, causes unhappiness and fear and cowardice.

"There's nothing like adversity,' a millionaire once said to me—there's nothing like adversity to bring a man out.'

"'Yes,' I replied, 'out at the elbows.'"

Several years ago when the University of Chicago held its decennial celebration, John D. Rockefeller was its guest for several days. A bewildering succession of functions followed one another in such quick succession that each affair was from one to four hours late.

At the great banquet on the closing day Mr. Rockefeller in his after dinner speech told the following story:

"I have felt for the past twenty-four hours like the Boston business man who lived in the suburbs and came in to his office every day. One winter afternoon he took the train for his home, but a terrific snowstorm was raging, and about half way to his suburb the train was snowed in. All night the passengers were imprisoned, but early in the morning they managed to reach a nearby telegraph station, and the Boston man sent the following despatch to his office:

"'Will not be in the office to-day. Have not got home yesterday yet.'"

Two men in a restaurant were disputing as to what a pineapple really was. One insisted that it was a fruit and the other insisted it was a vegetable. The men finally decided to accept the decision of the waiter, who was called.

"Waiter," said one of them, "is a pineapple a fruit or is it a vegetable?"

"It's neither, gentlemen; a pineapple is a hextra." Harper's Weekly.

An echo of Memorial day exercises in one of our schools has just been borne to the ears of this compiler:

The teacher addressed one of her pupils, an average boy of twelve.

"Now, James," said she "tell us what you would think of it if you saw the Stars and Stripes waving proudly over the field of battle."

"I should think," replied James, "that the wind was blowing."

MAY NOW CLEAR FOR CREMATORY CONTRACT

Alderman Harwell Withdraws Opposition—Mayor Will Sign New Compact

At a special meeting of the aldermanic board immediately following the adjournment of council Monday afternoon, Alderman J. H. Harwell withdrew his notice of a motion to reconsider the acceptance of the Destructor company's proposal on the crematory.

The alderman's notice had held the matter up in the aldermanic board since the last regular meeting more than two weeks ago, and the withdrawal of the notice had the effect of letting the acceptance go through to Mayor Woodward.

This clears the way to the execution of a contract between the city and the Destructor company. A contract has been passed up by council, has gone to New York and been executed by the officials of the Destructor company. It will be submitted to the mayor this week.

The mayor indicates that there is no doubt of his executing the contract. He read it very carefully before it was passed by council, and a number of changes were made at his request. Therefore he is familiar already with its provisions.

When the contract is executed there will be nothing left but for the Destructor company to finish the crematory, which it expects to do in about two weeks. It will be thoroughly tested, and when it has demonstrated to the satisfaction of the mayor and council that it will furnish all it guarantees the city will pay over the money to the Destructor company.

COUNCIL CONSOLIDATES THE CITY TAX OFFICE

Mayor Woodward, However, Is Expected to Veto Plan Offered by Committee

Of the two proposed plans for reorganizing the city tax office, council on Monday adopted the plan of a majority of the tax committee, which provides that the office shall be one, with all three tax assessors in full control.

The plan of a minority of the committee, which provided for two departments in the office—one to receive and the other to assess—was rejected.

Mayor Woodward is expected to veto the plan which was adopted, and an effort will be made to override his veto. Both of the plans involve amending the city charter.

The tax committee's effort to reorganize the office grew out of friction between the assessors—J. L. Harrison, T. J. Meador and J. N. Malone—and the chief clerk George Beauchamp.

Messrs. Harrison and Meador, whose terms expired Monday, were re-elected for two years.

TWO CITY PHYSICIANS RE-ELECTED BY COUNCIL

Several Board Vacancies Were Also Filled at Monday Afternoon Meeting

Council at its regular session Monday afternoon re-elected Dr. J. G. Hall and Dr. J. G. Wilkins as city physicians. Dr. H. M. Patterson a member of the cemetery commission. A. N. Thom was elected a member of the park board from the Second ward to succeed Frank Wilby, resigned. Dr. W. T. Brown was elected a member of the Grady hospital board from the Second ward to succeed Dr. George S. Tigner, resigned.

STRAW HATS FOR HORSES IN THE BEST OF TASTE

Veterinary Surgeon Tells How to Protect Animals During the Summer Season

According to Dr. H. G. Carnes, veterinary surgeon probably the greater number of the twenty-three horses which suffered from sunstroke during the past week would never have been subjected to this suffering had their owners and drivers taken a little precaution to see that the animals had plenty of water to drink, and had been provided with straw hats.

Straw hats may be had for a trifle. Fresh water is plentiful, and with a little thought, the owners of horses and mules may be saved considerable financial loss, and the beasts themselves be made more comfortable.

CAPT. R. M. CLAYTON HAS SERVED CITY 34 YEARS

He Was First Elected to the Office of City Engineer by Council in 1879

Monday, July 7, was the thirty-fourth anniversary of Captain R. M. Clayton's first election to the position of city engineer of Atlanta.

At that time the city engineer was elected by council, as were all other administrative officers of the city. Captain Clayton served four years and was defeated by Hugh Angier. Two years later Captain Clayton was re-elected, and has served the city continuously ever since.

In 1899 the election of city engineer was taken from council and placed in the hands of the people. In 1910 the position of city engineer was consolidated with the position of commissioner of public works under the new name of chief of construction, and Captain Clayton was elected to this position by the people. He is now serving his second two-year term as chief of construction.

OLD NIAGARA IS BEING RIGGED FOR FESTIVITIES

(By Associated Press.)

ERIE, Pa., July 8.—Officers in charge of the reconstructed Niagara, Commodore Perry's flagship, docked here for the week, dedicated to observance of the centennial anniversary of the battle of Put-in-Bay today prepared to add finishing touches that will make the old brig seaworthy for the voyage about the Great Lakes.

The Niagara's rigging has been reproduced so that it is historically correct. The sails are of flax and the rope hemp, both of which are said to have disappeared from Great Lakes shipping more than half a century ago. Not a particle of metal, except the armament, is above the decks.

The project to man the Niagara with old-time fresh water seamen was abandoned today. It was decided to place three petty officers on board and give them a crew of ten men from the naval militia.

The Niagara will hoist sails next Friday night for the voyage to Cleveland.

VICTIM OF AUTO TRUCK MENDING AT HOSPITAL

Physicians Tuesday expressed hope for the recovery of Julius Silverman, the thirteen-year-old boy of 253 East Hunter street, who fell beneath the wheels of an automobile truck late Monday afternoon. According to reports from the Grady hospital the boy is mending rapidly.

In an accident, which occurred at the corner of Decatur and Butler streets, Silverman fell from his bicycle under a Foote & Davies truck, driven by J. L. Davis, of 161 Love street. One of the rear wheels of the truck passed squarely over the boy's body, breaking his left leg, and injuring him internally. It was believed at first that he was hurt fatally.

The driver of the truck has been arrested and released under a $500 bond.

OLLIE TAYLOR GETS JOB; LEAVES REFORM SCHOOL

Best Known Boy on Fulton Industrial Farm to Make Good His Parole

Ollie Taylor, who was paroled from the Fulton county industrial farm by the board of county commissioners left the institution Monday, a position having been given him by W. H. White, Jr., head president of the White Provision company.

The boy who is better known to the public than any other inmate of a juvenile institution, is going to be given an opportunity to develop his talent for mechanical work. He is to be given board with a family on the Howell Mill road, near the White plant and his work, and every chance to "make good" is promised him.

Mr. White became interested in Ollie Taylor through the publicity given his case, and Monday after a talk with the boy and with Prof. T. A. E. Means, offered him a permanent job.

Ollie is simply under a parole and if he fails to make good or breaks his parole in any way he will be sent back to the institution.

KANSAS STOCK INFECTION DUE TO POISONOUS FUNGI

(By Associated Press.)

TOPEKA, Kas., July 8.—That the plague which killed more than 25,000 horses and mules in Kansas last year was not an infectious disease but due to a poison, was the report today of the special commission of the University of Kansas, appointed by the governor to investigate. The report stated that there was no known cure for the ailment from which the animals suffered and that the climatic conditions which produced it probably will not prevail again in many years.

A parasitic fungi growing on the grains and other vegetables caused the death of animals, according to the report, and the poisonous conditions in the pastures was due to the excessive moisture and humidity accompanied by high temperatures.

VIRGINIAN WINS BRIDE ON "FLYING" TRIP HERE

A romance which began among "the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia" had its culmination in Atlanta Monday afternoon when Miss Ada Belle Eaves, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Eaves of 29 Gordon place, West End, became the bride of J. L. Minson, a young business man of Richmond.

Mr. Minson and his bride first met some time ago in the western part of Virginia, and since the return of the latter to her home they had been corresponding regularly. Sunday Mr. Minson made a "flying" trip to Atlanta and it was decided that he should take his sweetheart back with him.

The two were married at the residence of Dr. John F. Purser, pastor of the West End Baptist church, and only the immediate members of the family and a few intimate friends were present. They left for Richmond immediately following the ceremony.

NEW PARK SODA STAND AUTHORIZED BY COUNCIL

Money Is Appropriated to Rebuild Structure at Grant Park

Council Monday afternoon reappropriated to the park department $2,500 insurance on the Grant park refreshment stand, which burned early Sunday morning, the money to be used to build a new refreshment stand and public comfort.

J. O. Cochran, president of the park board, and Dan Cary, general manager of parks, have already engaged the services of Architect Hal Hentz to draw up plans. Their idea is to build a concrete structure on the bungalow style circular in shape with the refreshment stand in the center and a wide veranda all around.

Council appropriated $500 to the construction department to employ an engineer to make a survey of all the steam railroad trackage in Atlanta, with a view of bringing the tax assessments up to date, it being claimed that no survey has been made in twenty years.

Council passed a resolution authorizing Fire Chief Cummings to pay $150 out of the fire department payroll to the widow of Dr. A. C. Secord, former veterinary of the department, this sum being the salary which accrued during his last illness.

A resolution was sent to the board of health recommending that after the completion of the new crematory the hours for collection of garbage in the fire limits be from midnight until 7 o'clock a. m.

A resolution was passed expressing council's sympathy to the family of Councilman Roy Abernathy, of the Seventh ward, who recently underwent a severe surgical operation.

Peddlers Are Crafty; Carry Phoney Money For Two Highwaymen

(By Associated Press.)

PASSAIC, N. J., July 8.—Learning from experience that they were held up and robbed of $150 in genuine money a year ago, Benjamin Goldberg and Julius Verban, partners in a produce business here, ever since have carried a goodly quantity of bogus money around, ready to fool the next highwaymen they encountered.

Their chance came yesterday, when two masked men held up their wagon at the point of revolvers and forced the men to empty their pockets of $10,000 in bogus bills. The robbers fled, with the groceermymen gleeful because their real money—$110—was safe beneath the wagon seat.

At The Crossroads Of Choice

There is no such thing as a happy medium in fitting a shoe. The shoe merchant has your size, or he has not. The shoe you purchase fits you perfectly, or very badly—'tis innocent or guilty.

Let us talk only of the excellencies of the perfectly fitted shoe.

The wise choice is for the shoe that fits against any other possible would-be inducement—be it novelty of fashion or question of price.

For the shoe that fits is priceless and the shoe that fits you not, is verily near to worthless expenditure.

The policy of this department is to supply you with the shoe of your choice, assuming that high-grade shoes and their perfect adjustment to the foot, are the consistent qualities that mark a discriminate selection.

To attain only the happy medium would fall far short of our ambition.

A late shipment of fine pumps and colonials is sure to contain your shoe need and your size—

What Anne Ritten-house Says

As the season grows warmer, the popularity of lace for afternoon and evening gowns becomes more emphatic. This fabric has entirely taken the place of fine embroidered muslins which were once the correct thing for all hot weather wear.

Women have objected to putting on silk and satin and chiffon during the four months of warm weather unless one was visiting at a formal place where smart dressing was necessary. But even then the tendency was toward elaborate gowns of embroidered muslin with ornamental sashes.

Now it is lace. And the choice is excellent. The fabric is not only cool as muslin when properly lined, but it has more of an air of distinction than a wash gown and gives the wearer a chance to compromise with dignity between a costly frock that is warm and an inexpensive frock that may have been to the tub.

Of course, lace is not inexpensive when it is of extra good quality and it is not cool when it is lined with thick satin. But the women who have sensible ideas can overcome both these difficulties by buying wisely among the masses of good lace offered at reasonable prices and line it with messaline or batiste. The former is better because its sheen gives an added quality of richness to the lace.

As flouncing is used by all the smart dressmakers instead of all-over lace, the amateur can follow without much anxiety. Every one knows it is easier to drape scanty ruffles on a foundation of silk than it is to cut all-over lace into a one-piece gown. The flouncing runs from nine to thirty inches and the shops of today offer a variety that makes one wonder how any machinery could have produced it in so short a time.

Lace Gowns Are Short.

One of the best ways of keeping a lace frock clean is not to allow it to touch the floor and this fashion is carried out in many of the evening gowns of this summer. It was a happy idea on the part of the dressmakers and it was a ball room and it is especially good this sensible idea of the women to follow it. It makes life easier in and out of the season when women dance at any place where there is music.

The extremists are cutting the lining four or six inches shorter than the outer covering of lace so that the ankles, usually clad in flesh pink stockings, will show through, but after this should be a fashion for the young and not for those who have covered twenty-five years.

This warning will probably make no impression in a time of undress in dress, for the present idea seems to be rather to reveal than to conceal.

In making these lace gowns it is wise to drape the flounces on the skirt in an irregular manner. If one wishes to be exceedingly fashionable only one flounce need by used. It begins at a slightly high waist line, drops within four inches of the knees in front, and is much longer in back.

If one wishes to make it stand out from the figure, a two-inch pleating of white net is used which is run through with milliner's wire. Below, such a flounce is a slightly draped skirt of messaline or thin satin which is cut off at the instep.

The bodies of such a gown is more apt to be draped in a deep U rather than a V and slightly filled in with flesh-colored silk net. The U-shaped decolletage is growing in favor every week, but it is only used in the front, not in the back.

Sashes for Color.

If one does not wish an all white gown for evening there is always the sash to fall back upon as a means of obtaining color. It may be as brilliant as one wishes or as demure. Flesh pink is so exceedingly popular that it is difficult to choose otherwise when one is building a summer evening gown, but the deeper shades of pink as well as purple, scarlet and green, are all to be had for the asking, and fashion smiles upon each.

The coolest looking girdles are those of net. They are tied around the figure in a careless manner, and add to the diaphanous effect.

The Quality of Service

Merchandising without advertising's helpful aid is a custom that is more profitable in the breach than in the observance.

Run over in your mind a dozen first-grade Atlanta businesses that serve the public with daily interesting news of all that is going on within their spheres of activity—and then, if you can, think of just one establishment, great or small, depending upon the patronage of the public, that does not advertise in some way or another.

The advertiser not only renders the public a distinct service in presenting his announcements frequently in THE JOURNAL, but he has also perfected a high quality of service in his relations with his patrons, that is of an unusually satisfactory order.

One of the big things in business today is service, and we think that it is found in its finest development in those progressive concerns who, through THE JOURNAL, tell you the interesting things you ought to know about themselves, their merchandise and the quality of service they have to offer you.

The Evening Story — Her Career

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

Cynthia Wyeth approached her father's private office with her head uplifted and her lips slightly compressed. It was just a week since her return from the trip abroad which her father and her elder sister had considered an essential finishing touch to her education, and she had been rather amused that her father had allowed her seven days in which to unpack and get her balance before bringing up the subject of business.

For years she had been given to understand that she must emulate her sister, who had endeavored to take the place of a son in her father's life, by entering the Wyeth department store as his private secretary. With the years she had risen to be his "right-hand man," and, on her first evening at home, Cynthia had been amazed to hear confidently discuss business with her father. She could not help admire her cleverness, but the thought that she might one day talk on the subject as intelligently aroused no enthusiasm, and now as she entered the office and found herself in the presence of her father, his "right-hand man," and Billy Harland, a protege of her father's, her eyes were mutinous, though they softened as she looked at Billy. She had liked Billy in the days of his bushful youth when father had frequently brought him out to dinner, and privately had thought him altogether too nice a boy to have business continually drummed into his young ears. She greeted him now as an old friend, then stood waiting politely. Surely Billy must see this was a family council!

"Sit down, Cynthia," her father broke in. Then, as her glance went questioningly to Billy Harland, and under it Billy fidgeted uncomfortably. "That's all right; I asked Billy to come in. Sit down. Now Cynthia, your education is finished. Of course, you're anxious to do things as your sister has."

Cynthia's head went a trifle higher. "If you mean 'do things' here in the business, father, no!" She flushed under her father's frown and continued hurriedly. "I'm not into business and ill be a great big failure. I don't want to 'do things' in the way you mean. I think my sister wonderful, but I'm not that type of woman, that's all. We've got to have the home women, father, and—I'm one of them. I want a home. I've wanted one all my life. We've never had one in the right sense since mother died. I've longed for the day that I might try to make one. Father, I'm going to look after the house!"

"What under the sun do I pay Mrs. Brown for?" Wyeth's tone was harsh.

"She does her best; but there isn't a home thing about the place. Hired help is written over every inch of it. You've got one of us in the business, father; let me look after the things I love." Her eyes pleaded. Suddenly her sister came into the discussion. Her voice was unruffled, but there was a finality in it. Cynthia knew and dreaded more than her father's bluster.

"I'm sorry you don't approve of Mrs. Brown, Cynthia. She is a most estimable housekeeper. I hope to have her for many years to come." There was the eldest daughter, the mistress, in the tone and Cynthia's head dropped. "This not wanting to come into the business is girlish fancy. You will overcome it under Billy's able instruction."

So that was why Billy was there! Cynthia looked at him suddenly, curiously. She remembered her sister's training under the then manager. Remembered also that Billy had been elevated to the position of general manager during her trip abroad. Evidently father had molded him to his liking. Probably it was because he was young that business was not written all over him as in father's case. Still, his likably blu eyes, though they did seem to hold a great sympathy as they met her violet ones, were bright and keen and businesslike. She turned from him abruptly. "If you insist, father, very well—for a time. Billy will find me a failure. I know I shall hate every bit of it!"

She began her business career the following week. She listened attentively to Billy Harland as he took her from the basement to the tenth floor, explaining the inside workings of the big department store. Billy talked well, and so she told him, quietly amused at the hot flame which scorched his face. "You're really quite interesting, Billy," she said, "but you'll never make me enthusiastic."

But that was before they reached the house furnishings on the fifth floor. Cynthia's eyes glowed as she looked at rich draperies, restful pictures, quaint chairs and tables, piles of soft, inviting cushions.

"Billy," she cried, "when I look at these things I long to pitch out the

"What was it you said you longed for?"

dreary stuff in father's house and stay at home and fix and fix! Wouldn't it be exciting picking out homey things for a genuine home?"

She did not see the dull red which slowly crept into Billy's face. Suddenly his eyes brightened. "Cynthia, you say I can't make you enthusiastic? I'm going to rig up a model six-room apartment on this floor. Want the job of furnishing?" he asked.

"You mean, fix it up as I like? Billy, you're a dear!"

Again she did not see Billy's heightened color. He merely growled, "Am I?"

Work on the model apartment went forward rapidly under Billy's supervision and at last he said: "Now, I'll turn it over to you. Go ahead and furnish."

"Oh, with your help, Billy! You know it always takes two to furnish a home. There's the man's taste to be consulted and—" She paused abruptly. "Of all the silly speeches," she fumed inwardly.

Of course it was nothing but of late she had begun to wonder in a way that thrilled if it were really necessary for Billy to spend the greater part of each afternoon in the house furnishings. But she did know that every day there crept into her life a greater distaste for the career father and his "right hand man" had mapped out for her.

It was in the fitting up of the blue and white tiled kitchen, where she hung such shining, modern utensils in rows, and such homey, frilly, white curtains before the quaint windows, and where Billy's eyes glowed with the passionate light that thrilled her as she said emphatically, "Billy, when I get out in this adorable room, I know, deep down in me, that the Lord never intended me for anything but an old-fashioned home woman, like my mother," that she lingered longest. There always seemed just a little more to do. But at last everything was complete, and they were making their final inspection. On the morrow the charming model apartment would be open to the public. When they reached the kitchen suddenly Cynthia sat down by the table, a disconsolate little figure, and raised miserable eyes to Billy.

"Billy Harland," she groaned, "I wish to goodness you had never let me do it! I hate to give it up so!" Her glance went mournfully around the bright little room. "Oh, Billy," dolefully, "isn't it the homiest thing?"

"I don't know much about homey things, Cynthia. A boarding house, you know—" His eyes were turned determinedly from the dainty figure by the table.

"Neither do I, really, Billy," more dolefully still. "I dream about them—day dreams, I mean—and I long for them. Don't you, Billy?"

He turned to her swiftly. "For heaven's sake, what do you want to torture a fellow for? Can't you see—don't you know that I long for——Oh, hang it all!"

He walked to the window, pushed aside her frilly curtains, and stared over the chair department.

Suddenly a voice at his elbow said softly: "Enjoy the view, Billy? A kitchen garden with homey old flowers and vegetables might beat it, eh? What was it you said that you longed for?"

He flashed around on her, his eyes burning. "Some one I've loved for ever since I was a boy; some one who makes me forget at times that I'm merely her father's protege; some one who doesn't give a rap for me——"

"Oh, but Billy," the violet eyes were raised in the way he loved, yet there was something in them that held him that brought him close to her, "you really don't know, do you, until you ask?"

Somehow, every week found John Wyeth and his daughter of affairs dining once or twice at the Harlands' charming suburban home, the "homiest" place imaginable, with a kitchen one loved to sit in, that had windows from which one looked out on a garden of old-fashioned flowers.

Cynthia certainly does know how to do things in that line." John Wyeth said once as they were speeding homeward. "She made a failure of business.

The keen eyes of the "right hand man" were dreamy, a trifle sad. She seemed to be, looking through and beyond her father to far horizons; her mind for the moment was indefinitely remote. "Perhaps father," she said at last, and her voice was very gentle, "it was an adorable failure—for a woman."

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

The best laid plans of foxes fail
Sometimes, and only trouble make.
Just like some plans of girls and boys
Who thought of others seldom take.

When Old Man Coyote, chuckling to himself, left Peter Rabbit and the old briar patch he went straight over to the place where he took his sun nap every day to look around. His sharp eyes soon saw the place where Reddy Fox had been lying in the grass to watch him, for, of course, the grass was pressed down by the weight of Reddy's body.

"Peter Rabbit told me the truth, sure enough, and I guess I owe him a good turn," muttered Old Man Coyote as he studied and studied to see what Reddy could be up to by watching him every day. You see he is so sharp and clever himself that he was sure right away that Reddy had some plan in mind to bring him to the same place every day.

But he didn't let on that he knew anything about what was going on. Oh, my, no. The next day just as usual, he curled up for his sun-nap, only this time he took care to lie in such a way that he would be looking toward Reddy's hiding place. Then he pretended to go to sleep, but if you had been there and looked into his eyes you would have found no sleepy winks there. No, sir, you wouldn't have found a single sleepy wink, not one! Instead his eyes were as bright as if there was no such thing as sleep. He saw Reddy steal out of the Green Forest. Then he closed his eyes all but just a tiny wee crack, through which he could see Reddy's hiding place; but all the time he looked as if his eyes were shut tight. Reddy crept as softly as he could, which is very softly indeed, to his hiding place and lay down to watch. Old Man Coyote pretended to be very fast asleep, and every once in a while he would make believe to snore. But all the time he was watching Reddy. After a little while Reddy tip-toed away until he felt sure that it was safe to run. Then he hurried as fast as he could go to report to old Granny Fox in the Green Forest. Old Man Coyote chuckled as he watched Reddy disappear.

"I don't know what it all means," said he, "but if he and old Granny Fox think that they are going to catch me napping they are making one of the biggest mistakes of their lives."

The next day and the next the same thing happened, but the day after that Reddy only stopped long enough to make sure that Old Man Coyote was there just as usual, then hurried away to the top of the Crooked Little Path that comes down the hill where he barked three times. Old Man Coyote watched him so and heard him bark.

"That's some kind of a signal," said he to himself, "and unless I am greatly mistaken it means mischief. I think I won't take a nap today, for I want to see what is going on."

With that Old Man Coyote made a very long leap off to one side, then two more, so as to leave no scent to show which way he had gone. Then, chuckling to himself, he hurried to the Green Forest and hid where he could watch Reddy Fox. He saw Reddy hide on the edge of the Green Forest, where he could watch Farmer Brown's dooryard, and then he crept up where he could watch, too. Of course he saw old Granny Fox when she led Bowser the Hound down across the Green Meadows, and he guessed right away what her plan was. It tickled him so that he had to clap both hands over his mouth as he watched sly old Granny take Bowser straight over to his napping place, and when he saw how surprised she was to find him gone he sat up and laughed until all the little people on the Green Meadows and in the Green Forest heard him and wondered what could be tickling Old Man Coyote so.

Giants Win Twelve in Row--Six Wins for the Cracker Team

Three Hurlers Used by Smith To Take Game

Bill Bailey Put Ball Over Sign Boards for Home Run—Final Count Was 12 to 4—Price Did Grand Work

It took three pitchers to do the work, but Atlanta finally got away in the opening game with Memphis, it was one of the slugfest variety and Atlanta won.

Joe Conzelman started for Atlanta, but owing to a sore arm did not have his usual control and retired in favor of Paul Musser. Likewise Musser was off his ternate and Gil Price was called to the scene. The last change, however, appeared entirely needless, and only served to ruin Price for duty for a couple of days.

Parsons essayed to fling for Memphis and had nothing. He was hit safely thirteen times, walked five and was hampered by three errors, all of which heled to score the twelve tallies. The Crackers got away with a score in every inning but the third and seventh and hit safely in all but the third, sixth and seventh.

The base stealing of the local club continues to be high class. Two swiped cushions were gotten away with, Long and Smith doing the pilfering. Another feature piece of base work was shown by Long in the first round when he went from first to third on a sacrifice bunt to the third station.

Harry Bailey was certainly right in the game all the way. He hit a line drive over the right field signs for a home run in the opening round, once singled, got a sacrifice hit, scored one run and grabbed down Love's long foul in the third.

Whitey Alperman pulled one of his usual neat plays in the third when he played Baerwald's slow roller with one hand and by a quick throw retired the runner at first.

Izzy Bisland had to pull the big fielding play of the game. In the eighth he picked up Butler's smash over second base and managed to get the runner at first. The pick-up was made with one hand, while the shortstop was on the dead run.

Bill Abstein still knows how to pound the old pellet. He made just three of the seven hits attributed to his tribe. He also drove in three of the runs and scored another himself.

Butler fielded around the short station in jam-up order. He cut down several hits by neat pickups and was always covering the bag on any attempted steal.

No hitter of the day pounded the ball harder than Bisland and yet he was the only Cracker who failed to register a single. Each time his smash went directly at some waiting fielder.

MAJOR CLUBS OFFER $12,000 FOR PACIFIC COAST PLAYER

JOHNNY WILLIAMS,
Sensational pitcher of the Pacific Coast.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 8.—Twelve thousand dollars has been offered the Sacramento ball club of the Pacific Coast league for Johnny Williams, the young pitcher who is this season leading the coast twirlers. Several major league clubs are after him and have been bidding against each other until the price has reached this figure, the largest ever offered for a Pacific Coast league ball player. Jim McGuire, scout for the Detroit club, is looking Williams over, and it is possible the bid will be raised. Manager Wolverton, of the Sacramento team, declares he will make no cash deal for Williams. He will consider only a trade, including a pitcher of known ability and another good man.

Tries for Record

CLEVELAND, July 8.—In an attempt to lower the track record of 1:58 3-4, held by himself, Uhlan, the world's champion trotter, went the mile in 1:59 1-2 on the Grand Circuit track here, by quarters his time was 29 3-4, 59 1-2, 1:29 1-4, 1:59 1-2.

Sign Thompson For Atlanta; Musser to Go

With Hard-Hitting Team Like Atlanta, the Young Collegian Should Win—Musser Goes Back to Washington Team

Carl Thompson lately hurler with the Birmingham club and formerly star right-hander of the University pitching corps, has been signed by Manager Smith for box duty with the Atlanta team. He affixed his signature to the Cracker contract Monday night and with his signing Paul Musser was turned back to Clark Griffith's Washington team.

With Birmingham Thompson could not win, despite the fact that he hurled jam-up ball and batted like a house afire. He always got away with a good game, but his teammates did not bat back of him, and the result was that he dropped 11 games and won just 2. With Atlanta it is hoped will be different. The Crackers always hit the ball hard and if he turns in a few three and four-hit games for Billy Smith as he did for Carleton Molesworth, Atlanta will get a few wins from him.

There are thousands of fans in Atlanta who firmly believe that Thompson can win fifteen games for the Crackers. They have seen him in many games and he has always pitched good ball. With Birmingham he fought a one-hit game, a four-hit battle, two of five hits, three of six and one of seven, and yet they went on the lost side of the column.

The coming of Thompson means the passing of Musser and no more popular ball player ever lost out than this same blond athlete. He is always in there working his head off, but lack of control has just so handicapped him that he appears to have lost heart. He is very popular with both players and fans, and he is wished success, no matter where he goes. Griffith has great faith in Musser and will likely keep a string to him, no matter where he is placed. He may some day gain control, and when he does, it means that the Washington club will have a mighty good man.

AMERICAN LEAGUERS BEST AT BASE STEALING GAME

The American league players still hold the base stealing leadership of the present season. Milan, the great outfielder of the Washington club, has performed the remarkable feat of stealing forty-one bases in seventy games, a record which has never before been equaled in the big leagues. He is far ahead of the next best and Ty Cobb, once the champion base stealer, does not show in this class.

Milan is followed by Eddie Collins, the Hustling second baseman of Philadelphia, with twenty-seven stolen bases in sixty-six games, and Moeller, the Washington outfielder, with twenty-seven in seventy games. Thus Clark Griffith, manager of the Senators, has other evidence than merely Walter Johnson that he has a great baseball club.

The National league players who came nearest these figures were Myers, of Boston, with twenty stolen bases in sixty-four games, Lobert, of Philadelphia, with twenty-one in sixty-one games, and Doyle, of New York, with twenty-one in sixty-one games.

New Records Are Expected Tuesday Night

Jock McNeil, Tex Richards and Morty Graves Are Out to Get Away With 96 Miles an Hour—Plenty Events

Barring the interference of the weather man a dozen motorcycle riders will Tuesday night put their whole being in the smashing of a few speed records. For ten days they have been preparing for the opportunity that presents itself Tuesday night and all will make the very best of it.

The same program arranged for last week will be carried out Tuesday night. The first race gets under way at 8:15. In case rain interferes the races will be put off Wednesday night with the next regular scheduled meeting on the day night.

Since Morty Graves demonstrated his real speed of the local track by moving 95 miles an hour all the other drivers have declared war and are out to better this mark. Not one in the bunch is afraid to go just as fast as any machine can move so the past week has been largely spent in the landing of new and faster motors and their tuning. Right now four or five of the racers have new cars and they are going to let them out when they hit the boards Tuesday night.

Jock McNeil is the ring leader in the contrary by averaging over 90 miles a record and his lieutenants are Richard and Lockner. All have new cars and they are out to travel something like 97 miles an hour. McNeil has worked on his machine for many days and now the way it runs during practice spins is certainly able to move up to a great speed when Jock gets in a real race and begins to push it.

Several classy amateur events have been arranged as well as the big motordrome purse and the Wa...our sweepstakes. All the riders are entered in the two main events and the rivalry is keen.

Here is the program:

THOMPSON TO WORK GAME; LIEBHARDT FOR MEMPHIS

Atlanta will make an attempt to win the seventh straight game by taking the measure of the Memphis Turtles in Tuesday's game at Ponce de Leon. To date the winning record consists of a win from Montgomery, two in a row from Mobile, two wins and two tied affairs with New Orleans and a win from Memphis.

It is more than likely that the Cracker mogul will send in Carl Thompson, the latest addition to the hurling staff, to try for the seventh straight. Thompson has been idle for some days and his arm should be propefly rested to go the distance. Thompson will have the advantage of good catching with Chapman doing the work.

Opposed to the new Cracker player will likely be Glen Liebhardt, that veteran "iron man," who has seen duty in more than one circuit and always done well. Catching for Liebhardt will be Snell or Seabough.

In the game Monday the Crackers showed real form in most every department, and with anything like the same classy showing on Tuesday and there will be nothing to it but another home victory. The team is playing for a better standing in the race and it is more than likely to come.

Horses After New Records

(By Associated Press.)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 8.—Several new records in the second day's races of the Grand Circuit meeting today would not come as much of a surprise, with a fast track and temperature predicted for this afternoon.

The $2 000 Forest City stake, in which Braden Direct, owned by J. H. Elspass, of Detroit, was the favorite, the three-year-old pacers of 2:03 3-4 last year, will divide interest with the three-year-old trotters who made two close heats, the 2:09 pace, with a field of thirteen, and the 2:24 trot, with nine entries, complete a full afternoon.

Branham Baughman, in Walter Cox's stables, who was second to the Denver horse last year, again is entered in the Forest City and will be favored in the betting.

TIGERS SEEK LAJOIE; WOULD BE BIG HELP

Detroit Owner Does Not Think Star Has Slowed Up So Much—Would Be Star at Second Bag for Jennings' Crew

DETROIT, Mich., July 8.—"If Larry Lajoie is put on the market, I will try to put in first bid for him, but think there is one chance in a hundred he will be offered for sale or trade. That's all there is to my trying to get Lajoie for the Tigers'."

Thus spoke Frank Navin, president of the Detroit baseball club, in reference to a report that he was going to make a hurried effort to obtain the big Nap star for his club.

He hadn't telephoned to President Somers, of the Cleveland club, to make an offer for Larry, and he said that he didn't intend to.

"If I happen to see Mr. Somers," said Navin, "I'll no doubt talk over my prospects of getting Lajoie. But I haven't anything I can trade for him and I can't give a fortune for him in cash.

"As a matter of fact, I think that the Naps won't let Lajoie go. I believe that there is a good deal of bunk mixed up with all the reports that are coming out of the Naps' headquarters about Lajoie being disgruntled and Birmingham being disgusted with him."

Lajoie is probably worth more to the Naps, even though he has slowed up woefully, than he is to the Tigers. He could be used by the Tigers at second base for a season or two for the sake of his hitting. Following Bush, Cobb and Crawford, that .325 hitting of his would do some satisfying things.

But Lajoie would be good to the Tigers only a season or two at best. To get him the Tigers would have to assume his three-year contract with its heavy salary. In the meantime, likely as not Manager Jennings would be wanting to try out some youngster at second base in order that he might complete his program of rebuilding the Tiger infield.

TICKET GOES TO THIS FAN

Will McMurry, of 100 Ormond street, had identified himself as the enthusiastic fan whom The Journal photographer snapped at the Fourth of July contest.

He has called at The Journal office and received his ticket. Much interest is shown in these fan pictures, and it is very seldom that a free ticket remains in the office when it is coming to some fan. As a general rule, they are there early the next morning for the pass.

CHANGES FOR JUST A DAY

Chattanooga crept closer to Mobile Monday when Mobile had an off day and New Orleans was easy picking.

Montgomery was shoved further into third place by the Barons, while Atlanta climbed within four points of third by defeating Memphis.

In the National the Giants continued their winning streak and the Phillies could do no better than an even break.

Division In Appalachian

BRISTOL, Tenn.-Va., July 8.—The last half of the Appalachian league started Monday. The directors met in Knoxville Saturday and decided to have two seasons.

Johnson City was deleclared the winner for the first half, Knoxville and Bristol second and third, respectively.

The team winning the second half will compete with Johnson City in a series of seven games to decide the championship of the league.

CUB OWNER PROTESTS

CHICAGO, July 8.—President Charles W. Murphy, of the Chicago Nationals, wired to President Lynch protesting the second game of Sunday's double-header with St. Louis, which was declared forfeited to the latter.

Murphy claims the game should be awarded to the Cubs and he wants Umpires Eason and Brennan reprimanded for giving the game to St. Louis. He doesn't deny that his players adopted dilatory tactics in an ecort to prevent five innings from being played before 6 o'clock, when the game was to have been called by agreement, but he contends that the visiting team offended first in violating the rule by trying to get themselves put out quickly after they had obtained a three-run lead.

Chicago Athletic Meet Lost Just $15,000

CHICAGO, July 8.—The committee which had charge of the international games in Grant Park last week faces a deficit of $15,000, it became known yesterday. Everett C. Brown, one of the managing committee, attributed the principal loss to the failure of the pole tournament, which had been planned. He said the committee figured on receipts of $10,000 from this event.

First Baptist Wins Eleven in a Row

The First Baptist made it eleven straight wins when they defeated Holy Innocence a double bill Saturday. The first game was slow and featured only by the heavy hitting of the league's leaders, they getting 16 hits and 13 runs. Adams had the Holy Innocence boys at his mercy all through the game, their only run resulting from a wild pitch.

The second game was faster and was featured by a catch by Cross, who fell, rolled over and caught the ball while lying on his back.

Whigham Takes Two

WHIGHAM, Ga., July 8.—Whigham defeated Boston in a double-header on the Boston diamond on the Fourth. Whigham taking the first game 9 to 3, and the second 6 to 1. The lone score being made by an error of the umpire, which resulted in the second game being called in the sixth inning.

The manager of the Boston team became so sore over their defeat that they refused to pay all the expenses of the Whigham team as promised. Whigham having to pay their fare one way.

The features of the games being the grand pitching of Cross and Stribling for Whigham, only giving up one hit each.

BUNTS AND BINGLES

BY JULIAN MURPHEY

Our respect for tennis has gone up since we learn that the receipts from the recent Australia-United States matches were $19,000. Wonder why in the world Carnegie and Rockefeller didn't discover that?

Frank P. Coleman, all round sport and owner of the Memphis ball club, is traveling with his bunch of ball tossers. Mr. Coleman has taken upon himself an additional title, now being traveling secretary of the club as well as president, treasurer, publicity agent and main owner. If any other job unwinds itself he will likely take this also.

WON'T DISCUSS DEAL.

Naturally the first question fired at Owner Coleman when he showed up in Atlanta was whether Cholly Frank and Bill Bernhad would swap managerial berths at the end of the present season. The usual denial was forthcoming. It is natural that Mr. Coleman should deny any proposed change, but nevertheless the rumor is gaining ground and it appears more than likely that Frank will agai be under Frank's arm when the 1914 season is started.

They have now started the rumor that Roger Bresnahan will next season take hold of the Brooklyn Dodgers, succeeding Bill Dahlen. This may all be true enough, but when Dahlen builds up a team to the efficient class of the Dodgers, grabs third place in a race like that now going on in the National circuit and is fired it is time that Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and a few other begin to worry over their jobs.

Dahlen has worked hard for three seasons and succeeded in building up a corking good club. All are young players and to let Bresnahan butt in and get the credit of making a good showing with Dahlen's talent would be a bit out of the ordinary. Rumors are rumors, you know. Thousands are sprung but few pan out.

In answer to a question of how boxers amuse themselves would say that they do so principally by challenging Packey McFarland at 133 pounds ringside and by knocking out Bombardier Wells.

AFTER NEW MATERIAL.

With the real test at hand the different clubs are beginning to add strength. First it is Chattanooga that goes out and strengthens with the result that Kid Elberfield gets right in the pennant race and then Memphis and Nashville try the same stunt. Bill Bernhardt and Bill Schwartz are on the hunt for young stars who can deliver but are not opposed to picking up the ex-majorleaguer.

Nashville enjoyed prosperity for some weeks and now fans won't stand for any of this tail-end business. They want some more second place ball and the Hirsig-Schwartz combination will have to go out and get it or lose a lot of patronage. But at best Nashville has but a second division team. The spurt which put the club in the first division was attended mostly by luck, the team geting away with game after game that would ordinarily go the other way.

Now that all the girls' colleges have their athletic meets and teams, we should not be surprised to hear that "Chicken" Smith, of Vassar knocked out "Squab" Brown, of Wellesley in the second round of their bout for the intercollegiate championship. And if it ever happens we would like to be in on a slice of the "gate" such a contest would bring.

Five Aero Crafts On 900-Mile Race

CHICAGO, July 8.—A fleet of five flying boats will shoot out of the Chicago harbor shortly after noon today for a 900-mile cruise to Detroit, the most remarkable trip ever undertaken by craft of this kind. Accidents yesterday to two of the aero-yachts, delay in adjusting two others and injury to the lieutenant who was to have piloted the navy's entry reduced the field of starters to one-half the original number of entrants.

Boats will leave the floating slip of Grant Park singly to prevent accident, and Tony Jannus of St. Louis is expected to be the first to get away.

QUITE OTHERWISE.

Out in a vanished byway,
Alone in a lonesome sea;
Far from the crowded highway
And the numerous things that be;
No chance to read the story
Of high finance and the gory,
Of murderers, crazy and drunk;
And yet has the mad world wonderful—
Wondered how he "could do so";
And year after year has thundered
"POOR old Robinson Crusoe."

Out from the sordid rabble,
Away from the brain-storm mob;
From the line of political gabble
Of the gents who are after a job;
Never a word of the tariff
That throttles the country or town,
Never a moment to care if
Revision be upward or down;
And yet has the mad world wondered—
Wondered how he "could do so";
And year after year has thundered
"POOR old Robinson Crusoe."

Never a ball club dropping
A batch of games in a row;
Never a White Hope flopping
His carcass out for a blow;
Never a slice or a stymie,
Never a mad bug's cry.
And never, so bless or bl'me
Never an alibi;
And yet has the mad world wondered—
Wondered how he "could do so";
And year after year has thundered
"POOR old Robinson Crusoe."

Business of reversing a portion of that yawp against the English stroke. It's all right when it wins.

It won in golf and tennis and lost in polo and boat racing, leaving a percentage of .500. No pennant winning strike perhaps, but it is still several points above the stroke used by Browns, Yanks, Reds, Braves, Pirates, Cardinals and one or two more.

NOT EXACTLY.

The Giants celebrated the Fourth of July by winning their tenth straight game, thus showing that if all men were created free and equal there was entailed somewhere along the line the process of a slump. The Braves and Dodgers, for example, may have been created equal to the Giants, but their transfers were stolen after three weeks on the trail.

THE A. L. DREAM.

Dream of conquest in the American league now is centered upon second place and Griff is confident that he will beat the Naps, the White and Red Sox to this landing.

He beat out the Mackmen last season and he expects to beat out Boston this season.

In other words he can beat the Athletics some of the time and the Red Sox some of the time, but he can't beat them both all of the time long enough to finish first.

THE FILM INCARNATE.

Some moving picture concern dropped a fortune when it failed to reel off C. Webb Murphy's features as Miner Brown shut out the Cubs on July Fourth.

C. Webb couldn't see Brown last season, and now his team can't see the same pitcher this year.

The American league would have a wonderful race on without the Athletics. But just at present Mr. Mack's club is still said to be a member of the younger circuit, although modestly refraining from doing anything except to break up the race.

England now has two cups to drink from, where for a brief spell it looked as if she would be forced to fall back upon good cultivation to absorb her moisture through a tube. If she can maintain the Davis cup the international program will be considerably in her favor, with the Big Four alone between her and a clean sweep.

JACKSON OFF THE UMPS; BIRMY TO KEEP KICKING

CHICAGO, July 8.—The two Joes of the Cleveland outfit have different ideas on the umpire question. Manager Joe Birmingham says he isn't going to allow the ruling given him by President Ban Johnson to make one bit of difference in the way he handles the game and his men, and that he will continue to enter protests to the umpires whenever there is sufficient reasons. Slugger Joe Jackson says he doesn't intend to so much as peak to an umpire the rest of the season.

Jackson says that when he decides he is ready to give up the management of the Cleveland club he'll quit kicking. "But there fighting for the club and fighting," said Birmingham, "and there's no umpire in the league who can truthfully say that there has ever been anything personal in my kicks. I'm not afraid though to have it thrown into the Cleveland club and take it without even making a protest to the umpire. When I stop fighting it will be a sure sign I lost interest in my job and then I ought to be fired."

That Birmingham allows no profanity to enter into any of his kicks is shown by the fact that, while he has been chased off the field three times this season and to the bench upon two other occasions, he has never drawn a fine or suspension from President Johnson.

RIDING OF ARMY BETTER SINCE RACES ARE GIVEN

NEW YORK, July 8.—The introduction of races for United States army horses on jockey club tracks has done much to improve the riding ability of the officers who have had the mounts. About five years ago at Biltimore, when the first of these races was run, the attempts of the officers at race riding were almost ludicrous. Then some of them finished hanging on to the saddle or up at the horse's neck, or they used up most of the contest tying themselves on.

The exhibition was regarded as a big joke by all who saw that first race. Today the army officers ride almost as well as the professional jockeys either on theflat or over the jumps. At Flying Rock the army officers' events were featured by particularly good exhibitions of horsemanship.

At Belmont Park Lieut. Rockwell, who, by the way, is a military attache of the White House, put up a ride on Kinnelon that few of the leading professionals could improve on.

The race-going public has grown to like these military races and already are familiar with the riders and their mounts. The Jockey club thinks the contests are a good thing for the sport.

Philadelphia has 28 golf courses. The Fairmount park commissioners vetoed the plan to lay out a public course in the great public park there.

LaGrange Club Wins In Pitchers' Battle

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 8.—In a very exciting game today LaGrange got busy and defeated Anniston by a score of 3 to 1. This was one of the best games that has been witnessed on the local diamond this season, both pitchers being in good condition. On account of very high winds, no home runs were made.

The new umpire, Spencer, showed the fans that he was good at decisions, and they were met with the approval of all. The was no trouble or wrangling throughout the game.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Plant Sugar Beets and Turnips for Winter Feed for Poultry and Stock

EVERY one who keeps any number of fowls during the winter months should by all means arrange to plant a sufficient quantity of turnips and sugar beets, also collards and rape to furnish sufficient green food for their poultry during the winter months. This is very essential, and not only saves a large amount in the food bill but gives a variety, and helps the egg production wonderfully during the cold winter days.

Sugar beets especially are very easy to raise and are largely used by many dairymen, sheep and hog breeders, and extensively used by large poultry breeders, and as a large number of tons of this supply of food can be raised per acre there is nothing cheaper or easier raised during the summer and fall months. Our climate is naturally adapted to the growing of these crops, and we should take advantage of the opportunities offered us and plant during July and August a sufficient quantity to give a good feed each day.

Turnips and beets keep well if hilled similar to potatoes, or kept in a dry cellar, and the chickens certainly do enjoy them during the winter months when it is impossible to get any other kind of green food.

I know of one party who kept during the past winter a large number of goats, hogs, and cows almost exclusively on the sugar beets and rutabaga turnips that he produced on one acre of rich sand after his roasting ears had been gathered. We do not use enough of this kind of food with poultry and cattle in the south. Nearly all large sugar breeders feed extensively of these crops and especially on the sale of Jersey is this one of their main feeds.

It is so easily raised here and in such large quantities until there is nothing that a person can plant that makes cheaper or better feed than sugar beets as they grow larger and usually several times as many per acre as the turnips. Rutabaga turnips are preferred in preference to some other varieties; next to the rutabaga the globes are best.

This feed is a great milk producer and a great egg producer and will put the system of both chickens and cows in fine condition. Any one who has ever tried this feed one season will never be without it, and as there is plenty time and plenty space at this season of the year on the average farm or garden, you should plant every available space in some of these crops to be fed this winter.

It is surprising what large yields we have here in the south for every variety of crops, such as the ones mentioned in this article, but we have neglected doing so and continue to buy high priced feed from the west to take the place of these which are better feeds.

Thousands of pigs, calves and chickens could be almost supported if we had an abundance of root crops of various kinds, such are naturally suited to our climate and grow so abundantly here. Sweet potatoes come in this class and make the best of hog feed, and are also good for chickens and cows. It is not so much the feeding value that does poultry and live stock good when fed these root crops, but it is the variety they get which enables them to digest the more solid and richer foods which are fed along with them. It not only keeps old animals in better condition, but makes young ones grow more rapidly and develop into more useful specimens when they are fed a variety.

The number of tons of sugar beets that could be grown on an acre of average Georgia soil is almost unlimited, and they certainly do make splendid feed for live stock and fowls of all kinds. There are but few people who have ever used them in this section, but we should get in the habit of doing so which will greatly reduce our feed bills and help produce many animals and fowls at less cost than we have been producing heretofore.

Yours very truly,

Leroy Lee

CLOSE-IN MANUFAC-

TURING SITES

Small manufacturing concerns, especially those just starting a business, find it extremely hard to get a location convenient to both the wholesale and retail districts.

The high prices of close-in properties, especially corners, handicaps a few concerns to a large extent. You invest a good part of your capital in a small piece of well located property, in a few years you have outgrown the location, you look around and the town has grown in every direction and the property has naturally much higher than when you started.

This is the situation that confronts one of the favorite properties that could be offered by any concern either large or small. Price $30,000.00. Very reasonable terms.

Interesting Race on Between Healey and Hurt Office Buildings and the Winecoff Hotel—Much Interest in Skyscraper Leases—Mr. Candler Buys Chicago Real Estate—Real Estate Board to Elect a New President Tonight

An interesting race is going on now between three large buildings—the Healey and Hurt office buildings and the Winecoff hotel.

The Hurt and Winecoff structures will be completed early this fall. Practically all the exterior work is finished on the Winecoff hotel, and the contractors are working on the interior.

The steel frame of the Healey building is now at the fourteenth floor, with only two more floors to be completed. Granite is being laid at the base, and the tile on about three floors is completed.

The tile work on all the floors of the Hurt building is about finished, and all but two floors are completed as to exterior brick work.

The announcement of some of the leases in the Hurt and Healey buildings will be interesting. The soda water privilege, and the tenth and part of the eleventh floors of the Hurt building have been leased, but the names of the lessees are being withheld for the present.

There are several applications for space in the Healey building. The combined office space in these two buildings is about 800 offices. It is believed that all of them will be taken by the time the buildings are finished.

MR. CANDLER'S PURCHASE.

While local agents and owners are speculating on what Asa G. Candler intends to do with the old Capital City and University club quarters, Mr. Candler continues to buy real estate in other cities.

His latest acquisition is a parcel in Chicago. Previously he had bought in Washington, and not long ago he established a skyscraper in New York. The details of Mr. Candler's Chicago purchase are given in the following dispatch:

CHICAGO, July 8.—Asa G. Candler, president of the Coca-Cola company, has bought from Chancellor L. Jenks, of Evanston, the latter's business property at 1332-34 South Wabash avenue, 41 2-3 by 145 feet, for a reported consideration of $51,000. This property adjoins the site which Mr. Candler bought last month as a site for a ten-story coca-cola building. Mr. Candler now owns a frontage of 159 feet at that point.

The present sale was at the rate of more than $1,200 a front foot. It is understood Mr. Candler will erect on this property to insure permanent light on four sides for his building.

REALTY ELECTION.

The Atlanta Real Estate Board will elect a successor to Charles P. Glover, president of the board, who, under the by-laws cannot succeed himself, at a meeting at the Cafe Durand on July 18.

There is a movement on foot to change the by-laws, and a president may succeed himself. Among those mentioned for the place are S. B. Turman, Harris G. White, W. A. Foster and Carlos Lynes.

The nominating committee is composed of Charles P. Glover, J. H. Ewing, M. F. Ramsey, M. C. Kiser and H. W. Dews.

WARRANTS FOR NINE ARE SWORN BY FLOGGED MAN

His Wife's Sister Among Those Charged by Brooks County Man

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

QUITMAN, Ga., July 8.—J. H. Miller, who was whipped a week ago yesterday for alleged mistreatment of his wife, has sworn out warrants for nine of his neighbors, eight of whom he declares he recognized as the persons who flogged him. The ninth warrant is for Mrs. M. Phillips, sister of Miller's wife who is said to have given out information that brought about the whipping of Miller. Mrs. Phillips' husband is among those whom Miller charges.

The men for whom warrants were taken out all are well known in this section of the state. They are Hardy Johnson, Charles Johnson, Henry Johnson, Jared Johnson, J. T. A. Williams, W. Willis, M. Phillips and Mrs. M. Phillips.

The flogging of Miller followed allegations that, although his wife was desperately ill, he had driven her sister from the house, and refused her medical attention.

MORE PERSONAL EFFORT IN SELECTING TEACHERS

System Based on Mere Ability to Answer Questions Is Branded Vicious

(By Associated Press.)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 8.—The need of considering the personal element in selecting leaders in school work was brought out in an address at the general session of the National Education association here today by William H. Campbell, of Chicago.

"A system that bases selection of teachers on the bare ability to answer set questions is vicious," said Mr. Campbell, "and it is time to question the wisdom of classifying our children by herds."

Leo F. Hanmer, of the Russell Sage foundation, gave facts about school house evening centers as a paying community investment. He pointed out that students of corrective agencies claim that 80 per cent of all misdemeanors occur between 6 p. m. and 11 p. m., and showed how the school house evening center is being made a strong counter influence.

Mr. Hanmer told the cost of this new line of educational work. Throughout the United States 328 centers operated for the year at an expense of $139,536.

ARSON SQUAD MILITANT BURNS RARE PAINTINGS

Torch Put to Country House of Sir William Lever—Pictures Go

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 8.—An "arson squad" of militant suffragettes burned down the country residence of Sir William H. Lever, founder of Port Sunlight and chairman of the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, early today. The mansion, known as "The Bungalow," was situated at Rivington, near Norwich, Lancashire, and it was not occupied by the family, but contained valuable paintings and other precious objects, all of which were consumed.

A message was left by the incendiaries stating that if Sir William Lever had been as loyal to the suffragettes as Lancashire was to the king, who is now paying a visit to the industrial centers of the country, the fire would not have happened.

Damage to Sir William H. Lever's residence amounted to over $100,000.

MISS PANKHURST ARRESTED.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the suffragette leader, was brought up at Bow street police court today and found guilty of inciting people to commit disorders on June 29, when she led a mob to Downing street, to visit the official residences of the premier and the chancellor of the exchequer.

She was ordered by the magistrate to find surety in the sum of $2,000 for good behavior for a year, or as an alternative go to prison for three months. Miss Pankhurst refused to find bonds and elected to go to Holloway jail, declaring that she would at once start a hunger strike and also go without water. Archibald Bodkin, representing the treasury, said the authorities did not desire to punish her, but merely to prevent her making inflammatory speeches.

ZELIE EMERSON "INCITES" RIOT.

Miss Zelie Emerson, of Jackson, Mich., Miss Mary Richardson and Harry Golden, a militant sympathizer with the woman suffrage movement, who were arrested last evening, while trying to liberate Miss Sylvia Pankhurst from the hands of the police at Bromley, were all sent to jail by the police magistrate. Miss Emerson, who the police testified, had incited a mob of 200 obstructionists by shouting, "What are you going to do? was given a month's hard labor, and Harry Golden received a similar sentence. Miss Richardson, who had assaulted the police and broken a window at the police station, was sentenced for three months. The prisoner's only comment was, 'We shall do just as much as we choose.'"

Later Miss Emerson and Golden were returned to court and fined $10 each and, contrary to the suffragettes' custom, the fines were paid.

Miss Pankhurst, who defended herself, called out in court:

"Revolt is the only way left to us. There will be rebellion and the east will march toward the west with sticks and stones. If you drag me back to prison under the infamous cat and mouse act I shall continue to protest as long as life lasts. Very probably some of us will die, but all say it is worth it."

Live Stock is Treated Better Than Men, Says American Med. Leader

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 8.—Making the dedicational address at the cornerstone laying for the Galloway Memorial hospital yesterday afternoon Dr. J. A. Witherspon, president of the American Medical association, termed the action of the federal government in appropriating $50,000,000 for looking after the country's live stock and a mere pittance for looking after the men and women of the country a disgrace to civilization.

"Thank God,' the speaker said, "that I happen to be at the head of an association of 92,000 physicians who are making a great fight to prevent disease in this country. And, ladies and gentlemen, let me say to you we are not going to stop till the government realizes that the health of our people is at least as important as that of the live stock."

The new hospital is a Southern Methodist institution to cost $575,000.

EASTERN TRAINMEN VOTE IN FAVOR OF STRIKING

Erie Railroad Practically Invites Strike by Announcing It Can't Meet Advance

NEW YORK, July 8.—Ninety-four per cent of members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and of the Order of Railroad Conductors out of 74,633 participating in a strike vote in the wage dispute with the eastern railroads, are in favor of a strike. These figures were announced today at a joint meeting of union representatives and a committee of railroad managers.

The Erie railroad announced that it had withdrawn from the proceedings on the ground that it would be unable to meet any advance which might result. This practically invites a strike.

The Erie statement signed by J. C. Stuart, vice president, says in part:

"Similar proceedings in the past have resulted in increased wages, and while it may be possible for some roads to get these increases, the Erie railroad is not in position to do so at present. The wage increase demand amounts to 2 5per cent or a total annual cost, on the basis of present figures, of practically $1,200,000."

The Erie says it is willing to consider wages and conditions of individuals but will not agree to any general increase to any class of employes at the sacrifice of needed safety appliances and improved equipment.

After the unions had submitted the result of the strike vote and reiterated their demands, the conference adjourned. A conference of union heads will take place Saturday, when the strike will be confirmed and a course of action adopted.

The result will be reported to the railroads on Monday.

With reference to the Erie, Mr. Lee said that the roads withdrawal would not necessarily mean that a strike would be directed against it.

Lack of Quorum Prevents Any Action in House

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Lack of a quorum in the house for three weeks prevented consideration of the Clayton bill amending the Erdman act, and until enough members return to Washington no action on the bill can be taken.

The house is working under an agreement which will prevent the consideration of any business except by unanimous consent until July 14, and until that date it is probable that the consideration of the Erdman act amendment will be prevented. The Erdman act bill has already passed the senate in a slightly different form to that reported by the house committee.

Southern Army Aviator Falls To His Death

Lieutenant Loren H. Call, of Missouri, Flies Into "Warm Air Current" in Texas

(By Associated Press.)

HOUSTON, Tex., July 8.—Lieutenant Loren H. Call, of the United States army aviation corps, was killed instantly about 6 o'clock this morning by the collapse and fall of his aeroplane just north of Texas City. He had started his flight from the aviation field in the Second army division mobilization camp.

Lieutenant Call was regarded as one of the best army aviators. Yesterday he made a twenty-five-mile flight in twenty-five minutes. He was engaged in a practice flight today when he met death.

Lieutenant Call was born in Missouri, June 30, 1888, and appointed a second lieutenant in the coast artillery from Kansas, September 25, 1909. He was promoted to first lieutenant July 1, 1911.

Warm Air Hole Causes Machine to Tumble

(By Associated Press.)

TEXAS CITY, July 8.—The dangerous thing known to aviators as "warm air current" is held responsible for the instant death today of Lieutenant Loren H. Call, of the aviation corps, of the second division of the United States army, stationed here.

About two hours after sunrise Lieutenant Call, making practice landings, had risen from the aviation field, which borders the gulf of Mexico, had turned his biplane northward, away from the water, crossing the brown tented army city and was flying over the level treeless stretches near the artillery camp, which lies farthest inland.

His machine was at an altitude of about 550 feet, plainly visible to several soldiers who say that it seemed to be running smoothly, and that without warning, it suddenly turned its nose downward and plunged almost straight to the earth.

The impact broke nearly every bone in the young aviator's body, making kindling of his machine and wedging its fragments so tightly about his crumpled body that it was difficult to take out his inanimate form.

The "warm air" theory was advanced by other officers at the aviation camp, who know the location over which Lieutenant Call was flying. The accident occurred shortly after 7 o'clock.

While a board will be named to investigate, the view is expressed that nothing remains about the wreckage to show the real cause of the mishap.

Nine Policemen to Face Commissioners Tuesday

Nine policemen of the city force will be tried by the police commission of Atlanta Tuesday evening at headquarters, when the commission meets there in regular monthly session.

Eight of the men are charged with frequenting and drinking at a negro resort at 127 Auburn avenue. One of them is charged with giving false testimony to the chief of police in an investigation of the matter.

The ninth policeman to be tried will be I. E. Jackson, charged by L. M. Smith, of the Atlanta Telephone exchange, with having mistreated him in the Bijou theater.

The eight other patrolmen have been suspended pending the trial. They are Patrolmen Wood, Evans, Jackson, David, Bailey, McDaniel, Born and Folds.

Aviation Claims 298; Ten From U. S. Army

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The death of Lieutenant Call today makes a total of ten in the interest of government aviation work, nine fatalities being credited to the army and one to the navy, since experiments in aerial navigation was started with heavier than air machines at Fort Myer, Va., in 1908. The list is as follows:

Lieutenant Thomas E. Selfridge, dashed to death at Fort Myer, Va., September 17, 1908, while flying with Orville Wright, who had a leg broken in the fall.

Lieutenant E. M. Kelly, ground to death beneath his machine when he struck ground too hard in landing at San Antonio, Tex., May 10, 1911.

Lieutenant Leighton W. Hasiehurst, plunged to death when a wing of his machine crumpled at College Park, Md., June 12, 1912.

Skirts and Comedy In Vaudeville Not Regulated---As Yet

City council may ordain that the girls in the motion picture vaudeville shall not wear short skirts or tights, and that the comedians shall not employ risque jokes—but it hasn't yet.

Councilman George Boynton's ordinance to this effect, introduced Monday afternoon, instead of being passed, as he urged, was referred to the ordinance committee.

Council members, paying little attention to what was going on, suddenly pricked up their ears when they heard the clerk read something about short skirts, tights, fleshlings, etc. They flocked around the clerk and looked over his shoulder and asked questions of Councilman Boynton concerning the ordinance. Presently several council members decided the ordinance too extreme to be passed so hastily.

"Look a-here," exclaimed Councilman Humphrey. "This says a woman shan't wear tights on the stage. What about the diving Venuses that come here? What about the ballet dancers in grand opera? I move this ordinance go to the ordinance committee, to be carefully considered."

Councilman Boynton replied that the ordinance did not apply to vaudeville in the "big" houses, or tights in grand opera.

"That's one reason we ought not to pass it," remarked Councilman Mason. "Why discriminate against the five-cent show in favor of the five-dollar show? Tights are tights."

Another councilman remarked that to regulate a joke by ordinance would be a joke.

"Why not leave the motion picture vaudeville to the discretion of the library board, as it is now?" asked another. "If they find something that's bad, let them order it stopped. They've got the authority."

Councilman Ashley declared the ordinance raised the issue between decency and indecency. "As for me," said he, with some heat, "I'm for decency."

This brought Alderman Nutting to his feet. "Certainly; we're all for decency," exclaimed he; "but let us not project ourselves into the realm of the ridiculous."

And so, after some more discussion, the ordinance went to the ordinance committee.

DODSON'S LIVER TONE AT NIGHT STAIGHTENS YOU OUT BY MORNING

It Is Safer Than a Dose of Calomel That May Knock You Out of a Day's Work

If you are a calomel user, next time you are tempted to buy it ask your druggist if he can absolutely guarantee the drug not to harm you. He won't do it because he CAN'T do it. But there is a good liver medicine which he CAN guarantee—the famous Dodson's Liver Tone. He will refund your money without question if you are not thoroughly satisfied.

Go to him—your own druggist, whom you are acquainted with—and let him tell you of the great number of people who are now taking this remarkable remedy and feeling better, keener, healthier, and more able to enjoy life than they ever were when taking calomel.

Why? Because calomel is a poison—one that may stay in the system and while it's seeming to benefit you temporarily, may do great harm in the end. If you haven't felt these ill-effects so far, it is because you are fortunate enough to have a strong constitution.

Don't take the risk any longer. Get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone (50 cts.) and note how easily and naturally it corrects all bilious conditions, how it clears away that sick headache and coated tongue, how it sets you right without ache or grip. The most wonderful thing in the world for constipation.

All this without the slightest interference with your regular habits.

Tumble From Wagon Hurts Law More Than Dizzy Drop From Sky

(By Associated Press.)

man Law, who has been shot out of a cannon, dropped from balloons and airships, dumped into the ocean on a speeding motorcycle and escaping unharmed from a score of other dangerous feats, came to grief yesterday in a three-foot fall from a wagon. His shoulders were sprained badly and a finger so lacerated that he will have to have it amputated. Although not serious, yesterday's injuries are the worst he ever had.

Tailor Suits in Yellow Shades

(A Paris Letter.)

Tailored suits are made in woolen suitings of the new yellow shades—chartreuse, mustard and beige—the materials employed being coarse, heavy serge, summer weight velours de laine and sabendine, and some whipcord in beige was observed. It is extraordinary, the success that these yellow shades have met with in less than a month after they were first displayed at the model houses.
